

HALLOWEEN KEEPS PHONES TO POLICE STATION BUSY

Plenty of Pranks Produce All Sorts of Grief; All Quiet Until Next Year

Well, folks, your cat can come out of the collar now—Halloween is over.

Luna herself admitted that last night was some night all right. She arose early and adorned herself for a flirting match with Sirius. It seems, however, that the dog star had heard about Glendale's muzzling ordinance and feared to come out. As a result, the best was not kept and Luna went back home again shortly after midnight.

Thenceforth the evening was devoted to the pleasures of the Kingdom of Make-Believe. Big witches, with warts on their noses, soared through the air on vacuum cleaners. Ghosts swished around moaning something about "the fastest growing city in America not having a single rest room for visitors from Hades," goblins gobbled around, and wizards whizzed up and down tearing up the streets something awful.

Halloween pranks started early and a lively time was had by all, including the Glendale police department.

Bulletins From Front

At 7:15 o'clock a bunch of boys started their activities in the 300 block on North Orange street, "throwing garbage cans about and making an awful noise."

At 7:45 o'clock about twenty-four boys left Broadway for North Maryland avenue, "turning over signs and throwing garbage pails everywhere."

At 8:05 o'clock H. J. Blumen-thal, of 722 North Central avenue, reported that a bunch of boys had just hit a light globe. Oh, sure, it was an accident.

At 8:10 o'clock it was reported from Adams and Palmer streets that a bunch of boys were out in that vicinity "raising—the dickens." The gate to a nearby corral was opened by them and a flock of horses and mules were released.

At 8:30 o'clock a Studebaker driven by W. M. Platt of Platt's Tire Store at 129 South Brand boulevard crashed into an iron gasoline sign which had been placed in the middle of Louise street near Colorado boulevard. The steering gear locked and the car ran into the curb, smashing up its lights and doing other damage.

It's Clean-up Day

At 9:20 o'clock Mrs. C. D. Brooks of 432 West Lexington drive complained about boys in that part of town "making an awful commotion."

At 5:30 o'clock Officer D. L. Fleming reported that someone had broken an electric light post near the northeast corner of Los Feliz and San Fernando road on the property of the Shell company.

This morning's streets are being cleared of spare tires, tin cans, dead cats and other mementoes of last night's activities and many windows are being washed which haven't been washed since last Halloween.

Revolver in Hand

At 11:30 Fred Strehlein, who was sleeping in the rear of the Cobblestone Filling station at San Fernando road and Broadway, heard a commotion outside.

There was a crash of breaking glass as a window on the west side of the building was broken by a rock. Then there was an attempt to open the door with a skeleton key. However, when he came around the side of the establishment with a revolver in his hand, the gang disappeared down the road. Mr. Strehlein fired into the air thinking that the members of the party were probably boys looking for mischief.

This same gang is believed to have entered the office of E. D. Yard on the northeast corner of San Fernando road and Broadway. Papers were scattered over the floor and the interior was left in a general state of confusion.

Mrs. George H. Moore Is Hostess to Children

Mrs. George H. Moore of 221 West Elk avenue entertained the members of the primary department of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church yesterday afternoon at a Halloween party given at her home.

There were forty children and fourteen of their mothers present. Halloween games and refreshments were enjoyed.

The children present included Margaret and Baird Glascock, Lester Martin, Lillian, Dick and Bernard Jensen, Lois and Russell Fuss, Harriett McMullin, Buster Goss, Olga Baron, Albert Currell, Ruth Miles, Florence Duncan, Frances and Baby Adams, Eleanor Bradley, Richard Myers, Louise and Harriett Parker, Ellen Tronsier, Frances Hobensack, Francis Perry, Richard and Marjorie Hemingway, John, William and Marjorie Camphouse, Virginia Fisher, Clara Marie Taylor, Jack Dawe, Violet James, Robert Phillips, Arthur Richards, Elizabeth McEnany, Margaret Hone, Mary Louise Moore, William Boren, Nell Vesta Packard, Nelson Holt and Robert Lewis.

Colorado P.-T. A. to Learn of Amendments

Class Girls Gather In Hallowe'en Party

The members of the Philathea girls' class of the First Methodist church entertained the members of the Baraca class at a masquerade Hallowe'en party given Monday night at the home of Mrs. M. L. Parker, 1325 North Central avenue, her niece, Miss Helen Smith, being a member of the Philathea class. Miss Marie Oliver was in charge of the party, which was voted a complete success. Decorations were carried out in chrysanthemums, palms, pussy willows, pepper berries, lanterns and other Hallowe'en motifs.

All of the guests upon arrival were met on the porch by ghosts and goblins and escorted through the "terror hall of Hallowe'en." Many novel games were played during the evening and fortune telling provided another diversion. Miss Oliver was assisted in conducting the games by Miss Lois Percy and Miss Mary Rich. Delicious refreshments were served to six guests, after which the party broke up.

Local Music Club's Program Will Please

In addition to a group of her own compositions Gertrude Ross, composer-pianist, will play a group of compositions by Kalinikow, MacDowell and Alabieff. Liszt at the regular monthly concert of the Glendale Music club, to take place tomorrow night at the high school auditorium. A group of Spanish California folk songs harmonized and set for violin and piano by Gertrude Ross will also be played by Sol Cohen, violinist, who will be the co-artist on the evening's program.

This will be the second concert of the season to be given by the local music club, of which Mrs. Mattison B. Jones is president. No tickets are sold for these concerts, admittance being limited to those holding membership or guest coupons either from the senior club or the junior or juvenile auxiliaries.

Members of Calling Committee In Meet

Mrs. W. W. Hamilton of 327 West Garfield avenue entertained the members of the calling committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club, of which she is chairman, at her home Monday afternoon, when plans for the year's work of the committee were outlined. This committee will also have charge of the handkerchief booth at the Tuesday club society circus and bazaar on November 18, and asks that club members bring donations for the booth to the next club meeting on November 14.

Commutes Sentences

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—President Harding has commuted the sentence of Walter T. Neff, Ben Fletcher and John Walsh, political prisoners, who were sentenced from Chicago. The commutation is said to be conditional on their future good behavior.

Y. M. C. A. Drive Reaches $5,231

C. W. Ingledue's Team and One Led by W. A. Horn Have Close Contest

The residents of Glendale are behind the Y. M. C. A. organization of the city. This was demonstrated during the three-day drive to raise $5000 with which to carry on the work for the coming year.

Not only did the 100 workers who made the canvass secure $5000, but went "over the top," bringing in $5231. Of this amount the "Go-Getters" under C. W. Ingledue, secured $2645.50, while the "Live Yers," under W. A. Horn, were just $58 behind, bringing in $2586.50.

It had been expected that the entire amount would be reported at the meeting yesterday night, but with some of the workers still to be heard from it was found that they were short $229 of the amount asked. It was decided to hold a meeting again at 6 o'clock, at which time it was expected all of the returns would be in.

At the night meeting a great deal of rivalry was reported. First one team would be in the lead, then the other. Finally they were all in and the "Go-Getters" were found to be the leaders. After the announcement of the final results, Mr. Horn presented a 16-inch "loving cup" made of "tin" to Mr. Ingledue and the winning team, and a funeral march taking place soon after. It was said to have been a sad blow to the "Live Yers," who had been reported in the lead at the noon meeting.

Legislative Section Discusses Measures

The members and friends of the Tuesday Afternoon Club availed themselves of learning the various measures to be voted on at the next election by attending the open forum meeting of the legislative section, of which Mrs. B. O. Holbrook is curator, held at Masonic Temple yesterday afternoon.

The program for the afternoon included discussion of the following measures: No. 16, Chiropractic Initiative act. Affirmative, Mr. Hoffman of Los Angeles; negative, H. J. Castellaw of Los Angeles; No. 20, Osteopathic act. Affirmative, Dr. Harry Forbes of Los Angeles; negative, H. J. Castellaw of Los Angeles. No. 2, prohibition enforcement act. Affirmative, Mrs. Eva Wheeler, state president of the W. C. T. U.; No. 19, water and power act. Affirmative, Judge John A. Burgan of Los Angeles; negative, Mrs. H. V. Davis of Los Angeles. No. 24, regulating practice of law. Affirmative, Mr. Young of Los Angeles; negative, Wentworth Clum of Los Angeles. No. 1, Veterans' Validating act. No. 7, Veterans' Welfare Bond act of 1921; No. 4, Land Settlement Bond act of 1921. Affirmative, Frank C. Welser of Glendale. No. 30, franchises. No. 10, taxation of publicly owned public utilities. No. 11, regulation of publicly owned public utilities. Negative, Bert P. Woodward.

Policeman Fires Seven Shots at Fleeing Auto

Seven shots fired into the air, which was the only available target for them, last night disturbed the serenity of Southern Glendale. While patrolling a beat on Gardena avenue about 4:30 o'clock this morning, Officer D. L. Fleming noticed a Buick parked at the curb in violation of the city ordinance which provides that automobiles must not be parked in the streets after 1 a. m. His suspicion was aroused by the sight of a number of tools in the car. While he was examining them, a man started to come out from between the two houses at 1505 and 1509 Gardena avenue. When he saw that his car was being watched, he darted back again.

Officer Fleming gave chase. The two sped through the yard of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Company and then back to Gardena avenue where the stranger jumped into his automobile and departed precipitously. Seven shots fired at the rear of the departing machine had no effect upon the driver.

Class Members Have Party on Hallowe'en

A happy Hallowe'en masquerade party was given last week at the home of Miss Esther Jones, 1050 Justin avenue, by the members of Mrs. Ed Murphy's class of the First Methodist church. The evening was spent in music and games and refreshments of apples, popcorn balls, fruit punch and pumpkin pie were served.

Those present included Frances Betz, Lucille Noel, Helen Danforth, Lillian Danforth, Norma Dietrich, Opal Painter, Elva Bowen, Gladys Jones, Zola Highfill, Carmen Doyle, Charlotte Cleveland, Pauline Wilson, William Stuart, Joyce Farr, Esther Jones, Eugene Farr, Elwood Dietrich, Donald Dietrich, Fred Vorhis, Glenn Perkins, Iland Faneett, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Delos Jones.

Bank Is Now Owner of Corner on Brand

The Pacific Electric station on the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway yesterday officially became the property of the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles.

Trust deeds filed yesterday at the county hall of records reveal a number of technical steps by which this was accomplished.

It is said that the plans for the building to be erected on the property are not yet ready for public announcement.

OCTOBER PERMITS TOTAL $675,435

Next to April, Month Best In Year; Mark for 10 Months Is Now $5,430,156

October books were closed yesterday in the building office at the city hall with $675,435 worth of building permits to the credit of Glendale.

Excluding April, which went over the million-dollar mark, October has been the busiest month in the building line so far this year. Its total exceeds that of September by $27,715 and is nearly twice as much as the total for either May, June, July or August.

Months of 1922 have the following totals to their credit: January, $515,155; February, $421,390; March, $521,265; April, $1,222,699; May, $362,545; June, $365,613; July, $380,100; August, $384,204; September, $646,720; October, $675,435.

The total for the year to date, this morning was $5,430,156. This is $339,955 more than last year's total of $5,099,201.

Only $12,800 worth of permits were issued yesterday. Among them were the following:

Business Women to Have Turkey Dinner

Members of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's Club, of which Dr. Laura J. Brown is president, will be hostesses at a turkey dinner to be given in the Chamber of Commerce and auditorium tomorrow night at 6:45 o'clock to the members of the Los Angeles County Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs. This is the first time that the local club has been hostess to the federation and it is anticipated that there will be over fifty outside guests from the various clubs throughout the country, in addition to more than 150 of the members of the Glendale club and their friends.

Open house will be held at the club rooms at 126 South Maryland avenue from 5:30 o'clock until 6:45. The program for the evening will include songs and talks, a talk on "Finding One's Proper Vocation," by Mrs. Kenneth Campbell; talk on "Vocational Alliance of the County Federation," by Miss Winifred Hausman; vocal numbers by Mrs. Virginia Freeman. The officers of the club desire that those wishing to attend the dinner make their reservations today.

Service Executive Committee to Meet

Glendale's Community Service executive committee is to meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce hall, where they will elect officers, choose chairmen of standing committees and formulate a request to the National Community Service organization for a recreational institute conductor to direct local work.

Those who have consented to serve on the executive committee are L. T. Rowley, Jesse Smith, Richardson D. White, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Spencer Robinson, A. R. Eastman, C. E. Kimlin, V. M. Hollister, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Charles Toll, Peter Ferry, G. U. Moyle, Rev. C. M. Calderwood and Mrs. A. R. Barton.

Cerritos P.-T. A. to Hear Two Speakers

There are to be two speakers tomorrow afternoon at the regular meeting of the Cerritos Avenue Parent-Teacher association at the schoolhouse. The meeting will begin at 2:30 and at 3 o'clock Superintendent Richardson D. White will speak on the "Twenty-seventh Amendment."

Following Mr. White, Anne Irene Jenkins will speak on "The Why and Wherefore of the P.-T. A."

In addition there will be violin selections by Julius Kranz, Glendale's talented violinist and composer.

RUSSIA'S FAMINE YEARS DESCRIBED

Elder J. T. Boettcher, in City From Service Abroad, Tells of Experiences

Russia's suffering during the famine years of 1918, 1919 and 1920 can be graphically pictured by Elder J. T. Boettcher, guest at the Glendale Sanitarium, who saw nine years of service in Russia as head of the Seventh-day Adventist church organization there. Elder Boettcher returned to the United States in 1916, when he was banished by the Russians and his life was in danger and he could secure no assurance of protection from the American ambassador.

He is now a missionary of his church in Clinton, Mo., and has been in California attending the recent camp meeting at Fresno.

According to Elder Boettcher the famine years in Russia have been in Russia since 1885. However, the orthodox Greek church of Russia was such a vital institution that any form of protestantism was never in high favor and countless protestant workers were sentenced to Siberia for life for converting the Russians.

No Religious Freedom

"Under the czar's regime," says Elder Boettcher, "there was no religious or political freedom and that was why from 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 people were banished to live in Siberia. Of course the Bolsheviks are not religious but they tolerate the various religions, with the result that today there is freedom of religious activity and freedom of the press in Russia."

Some interesting evidence of the three years of famine are the samples of famine bread which Elder Boettcher brought home with him. He has two samples of bread, one which was afforded and eaten by only the wealthier class and the other the bread of the poorer Russians. Both samples are of a coarse grain, black texture and everything but tempting as the sole article of diet.

Bread lasts forever

The famine bread eaten by the rich was made of wild weeds known as German Melde, from the Simbirsk district. The bread was made from three-fourths of the weed flour and one-fourth of oats and rye flour and, according to Elder Boettcher, the bread would last "forever and three days."

A clay was used by the poorer classes in making their bread, the clay costing in pre-war times 1000 rubles or $500 a pound. The clay (Continued on Page 7)

S. F. Manson Home Is Scene of Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Manson of 1010 North Pacific avenue was the scene of a delightful affair last night when a number of their friends were entertained at a novel Hallowe'en party. The house was attractively and appropriately decorated for the occasion in the conventional colors of orange and black, while the guests carried out the program of the evening by appearing in masked costumes.

The evening was enjoyed in music, dancing and games, the masks being removed at a late hour, when a delicious course of refreshments was served.

Those who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Manson were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Kolts, Miss Hope Stuart, Miss Dorothy Rowley, Hill McGillis, James Gibson, Howard McGillis and Frank McGillis, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson of Fullerton; and Misses Evelyn Gustafson and Eleanor Jackson of Los Angeles.

MAN IS DEAD AS RESULT OF BEING HIT BY AUTO

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Struck by a speeding automobile driven by a Japanese, Frank Haskell, an employee of the Edison Power company's camp at Laguna station, received injuries which caused his death a few minutes after the accident, according to a report to the sheriff's office today. The accident occurred on a road near the power company's camp. The Japanese was said to be Kamau Hosaki. The report filed with the police indicates that Haskell and a companion were walking along the side of the Downey road when the machine driven by Hosaki came from behind and without warning struck Haskell.

'PAY LABOR SAVING WAGE,' SAYS JAMES J. DAVIS

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1.—Abolish the railroad labor board and free the railroads from governmental fetters. Federal meddling, without real power behind it, stirs up dissatisfaction and irritation—decentralization of treatment of railroad labor controversies is vitally needed. Pay labor a "saving wage," not merely a "living wage." This epitomizes the views of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis as given the International News Service today in an exclusive interview. Secretary Davis regards the problem so vital and continuation of the present policy so menacing that he expects to formulate a definite program on his return to Washington which will deal with railroad labor conditions "on a sensible, practical and human basis."

LEADER OF REVOLT IN MEXICO EXECUTED, REPORT

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—Francisco Murguía, leader of the most formidable revolt that has menaced the Obregon administration, was executed at 9 o'clock this morning at Tepic, state of Durango, after being condemned by court martial, the war office announced. Murguía had crossed into Mexico from Texas some time ago and since then had been conducting guerilla warfare against the federals in the north. Murguía was traced to Tepic, where he was found hiding in a secret room in a church. He was seized and an extraordinary court martial was immediately summoned. The death of Murguía leaves Mexico tranquil except for isolated bands of guerillas or bandits. Francisco Villa, former bandit and one time rebel leader, took the field against Murguía and was reported a few days ago to have been wounded in battle.

He told the police the shotgun was loaded with salt but physicians today picked fifty bird shot from the body of the boy.

ORDERS MEXICAN CONSUL TO OPEN N. Y. QUARTERS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The Mexican embassy shortly before noon today ordered the Mexican consul in New York City to open the consulate there, it was learned at the embassy here. This action was taken by Charge d'Affaires Tellez upon receipt of a telegram from the Mexican consul in New York, stating that he had been officially informed that the attachment of the consulate's property had been raised.

HURRYING TO MARRIAGE, HIS CAR IS HIT BY TRAIN
BERKELEY, Nov. 1.—Tragedy marred the marriage plans of Donald E. Harris and Miss Faythe Winchester when the automobile in which Harris, his three small daughters and a girl companion were hurrying to the residence of the bride-to-be for the marriage, crashed into a Southern Pacific train. Harris was hurled from the machine, landing on his head. At the Temple hospital it was said he probably would die. The young daughters of Harris by a former marriage were severely cut and bruised.

WARRANTS ARE OUT FOR ARREST OF KLANSMEN
SACRAMENTO, Nov. 1.—Dissolution of the local branch of the Ku Klux Klan, issuance of warrants for five Klansmen on charges of grand larceny and a sixth for embezzlement and threat to have 173 additional members arrested were sensational developments today which followed a row in the ranks of the local Klan. The warrants were issued at the instance of Kiegle Edgar I. Fuller, who said he had been vested with authority to dissolve the Sacramento realm.

BATTLE WITH OIL FIRE NEAR SANTA FE SPRINGS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Oil workers fighting the fire in the 75,000 barrel tank owned by the Amalgamated Oil company at Los Nietos, near Santa Fe Springs, today concentrated their efforts toward preventing the fire from spreading to an adjacent tank of 55,000 barrels, which, it is feared, might be lost. Every means of combating oil fires were said to have been used in an effort to smother the flames, and, as a last resort, 1000 gallons of foamite, a powerful chemical, was emptied into the blazing tank, but with little result.

CLARA PHILLIPS' LIFE STORY WILL BE RELATED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Clara Phillips' "life story," beginning when she was a baby in the arms of her mother in Texas, and ending a few days before the "hammer murder" of Alberta Meadows last July, for which she is now on trial, was to be told from the witness stand here today by her two sisters, Etta May and Ola Weaver. Putting aside their family pride, both sisters were to be called by Defense Attorney Bert Herrington, to testify that Mrs. Phillips is insane and showed symptoms of hereditary mental derangement since her birth.

COUNTY ASSESSOR GIVES FACTS ON GLENDALE TAXES

Necessary to Boost Valuations Materially, Is Claim; Figures In Detail

Ed W. Hopkins, assessor of Los Angeles county, in a communication to The Glendale Evening News, calls attention to an article printed under date of October 21, relative to a short analysis of the revenue raised by taxation in this city. In his letter, Mr. Hopkins says:

"I am enclosing you herewith figures relative to taxes in Glendale taken from the official records:

"In the first place the assessment of Glendale was increased this year very materially over previous years. In fact, it was necessary to do so owing to the rapid and phenomenal increase in values in Glendale. It would be absurd for the assessor to carry for 1922 the same assessment established several years prior to this year. For several years past the values have doubled and more than doubled over the values of three to five years ago.

What It Produced

"Speaking of Glendale as a whole, not going into details as to the different annexes, the assessed valuation for 1922 was $21,981,560 against the previous assessment of $12,477,675. Comparing the assessment and tax rates for 1921 with 1922 produces the following results:

"As I said before the 1921 city assessment was $12,477,675. The tax rate for municipal purposes as established by the trustees was $1.30 per $100 which produced $161,470.55. In 1922 the assessment is $21,981,560 with a tax rate as established by the trustees of $1.55 per $100. Assessed value producing for city purposes $338,674.23 as against $161,470.55 for 1921.

"The school rate for Glendale city district within Glendale city for 1921 produced $264,814.57 for 1922, $478,021.80, making an increase in revenue for 1922 for municipal purposes and schools by direct taxation of $390,410.91.

County Revenues

"For county and flood purposes the county rate produced in 1921 on the same valuation on which city taxes were levied, $95,286.67; in 1922, $180,898.64, an increase for county and flood control purposes of $85,611.97.

"To recapitulate there was raised by taxation in the City of Glendale in 1921 for all purposes $21,981,560; in 1922, $997,574.67, of which $816,696.03 or $14.5 per cent is for municipal and school purposes, and $180,898.64 or 18.15 per cent for county and flood control purposes."

Figures from Records

Figures taken from the official records follow:

| GLENDALE CITY | | |
|----------------------|--------------|--------------|
| | 1921 | 1922 |
| Municipal Assessment | $12,477,675 | $21,981,560 |
| Schools | $161,470.55 | $478,021.80 |

| | 1921 | 1922 |

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED; HOUSE TOTAL LOSS

Both Eagle Rock and L. A. Respond to Call; Dogs Furnish Excitement

The Eagle Rock fire department was called out yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock when the alarm was turned in that a house was on fire at 710 Eagle avenue. While this address is just outside of the Eagle Rock city limits, the fire department rushed to the scene of the blaze.

The Los Angeles fire department was already there, but even they had arrived too late to be of any service other than to protect buildings on the adjoining property, when the Eagle Rock fire department saw that they could be of no use, they turned around and came back.

The house, a five-room bungalow, was the property of J. S. Hallock. During the absence of the family it in some unknown manner caught fire. Before it was noticed by the neighbors it had gained considerable headway, and before either fire department got there was a total loss, it is reported.

Many Watch Fire

There was a large crowd of interested spectators who watched the flames until the house was completely burned to the ground; nothing but the fireplace and chimney were left standing.

Amongst the crowd was a medium-sized bulldog and a beautiful big collie, and before the fire was over the dogs, who up to this time had appeared ever so friendly, became engaged in what al-

Alleged Attempt to Bribe Under Inquiry

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 1.—An alleged attempt to bribe Mrs. Jane Gibson, self-styled eye-witness to the murder of Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, to keep silent, is under investigation by the officials at work on the case today.

The name of a private detective is prominently mentioned in connection with the sensational "expose."

According to an accepted version of the report, this man went to the "pig woman's" farm last Thursday, just after the contents of her affidavit had become public and opened negotiations with her.

"You had better keep your mouth shut. You can make more dealing with the defense," she was told, it is alleged.

Mrs. Gibson met the "feeler" with such a blaze of defiance that the man very readily realized the futility of his enterprise and left hurriedly.

Mrs. Gibson notified the county authorities. The description given by Mrs. Gibson left little doubt in the minds of the officials as to the identity of the man and it was determined to summon him and grill him on the episode. The private detective attempted to treat the matter as a "huge joke."

most turned out to be a fight to the death.

The bulldog finally got a hold of the collie's throat and lunged, and kicks, clubs, stones, and many other attempts to separate the bulldog's hold were all without avail. A woman who owned the collie called upon everyone present to save her dog, and again various attempts were made to loosen the death hold and it was not until a match was lit and fire put to the bulldog's nose did he loosen his grip whereupon the woman gathered the collie in her arms, got into an automobile and left.

NEW DRUG STORE OPENS SATURDAY

Located in New Building at Broadway and Ellis Avenue, Eagle Rock

A new drug store in a new building for the east end of Eagle Rock will formally open Saturday November 1, it is announced.

The location is in the corner store room of the new business block at the corner of Broadway and Ellis avenue, that will give to residents in the east end one of the most up-to-date drug stores in this section.

The proprietor is Walter F. Meyers, a druggist of over forty years' experience. Mr. Meyers will be assisted in the store by his wife and will carry a complete line of drugs and toilet articles.

A modern fountain has been installed, and no expense has been spared in making this new drug store for Eagle Rock a truly metropolitan store.

Mr. Meyers invites all residents of Eagle Rock to visit his new store on the formal opening day, at which time he will hold open house and serve ice cream to all visitors.

Mexican Leader Is Taken by Federals

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—General Francisco Murguía, leader of the only formidable movement against the Obregon government, has been captured by federal troops under General Abraham Carmona, according to advices received by the war department today. Fighting has been in progress between federals and Murguía's rebels in the north for several days.

ANNOUNCE MEET FOR DISCUSSION OF ANNEXATION

Prominent Speakers Will Take Up Both Sides of Question

At a meeting recently held by a committee of over fifty Eagle Rock citizens, a committee composed of Dr. J. C. Shedd, A. L. McCannan and C. W. Jones were appointed to arrange for a mass meeting to be held the evening of Thursday, November 9, at 7:30 o'clock at the auditorium of the Central school.

This will be the first official mass meeting at which the most important question of annexation to Los Angeles will be discussed. Prominent speakers taking both sides of the question will be heard and the meeting is to be open for arguments both pro and con.

The committee in charge lay special stress on the fact that it is not to be a one-sided meeting.

It is understood that this is the first of a series of similar mass meetings that are to be held to discuss this question. It is known that the necessary signs to the petition are available on short notice and that the petition calling for an election can be presented to the board of trustees at any time.

A few weeks ago a debate between Godfrey Edwards, who is known to favor annexation, and Judge Harold Le Cruzan, who is known to oppose it, was arranged to be held at the Central school, but at the eleventh hour was called off by the committee, giving as their reason that then was not the opportune time to publicly debate the question.

UNIQUE

General Cornelius Vanderbilt, at a dinner on his yacht Romola, told a war story, according to the Argonaut. "What was true of the civil war will be true of the world war some day," he began. "In a hotel smoking room back in the '90's a number of veterans got into a dispute over a certain battle. The veterans, all men of high rank, argued very turbulently. But a quiet man spoke up and said: 'Gentlemen, I happened to be there at that engagement, and I think I can settle the point at issue.' And settle it he did. The hotel proprietor, much impressed, said to him when he got through: 'My dear sir, what may have been your rank in the army?' 'I was a private, sir, a full private,' was the calm reply. A short time afterward the full private asked for his bill, as he was about to depart, but the proprietor said to him: 'Not a penny, sir! Not a penny! You owe me nothing.' 'Why, how is that?' the other demanded in bewilderment. 'I couldn't dream of charging you, sir,' said the proprietor warmly. 'You are the first private I have ever met.'"

WHERE TROUBLE LAY
"Did you have any difficulty with your French in Paris?"
"No—but the French people did."

When taking the car out on wet roads, see that all exposed connections are thoroughly lubricated. The splash of water on these parts will cause rattling and undue wear and rust.

Sunrise Civic Club In Hallowe'en Party

The Hallowe'en party and dance given last night at the Twentieth Century Woman's club by the members of the Sunrise Civic club was one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever held in Eagle Rock, in the opinion of practically every one of the 200 guests who attended.

The big clubhouse and the spacious grounds were ablaze with colored lanterns, and the decorations were some of the most novel ever seen. It was a masked party and every one came in costume, and those who allowed their masks to slip from their faces were fined.

"Billy" Cowan's orchestra furnished the dance music, and dancing was the main feature of the evening. At each intermission, however, guests would make the rounds of the various booths, fish-pond, wheel of fortune, Egyptian palmist tent, the cider barrel and many other novel attractions.

Children Present

The children were well represented, and excepting when the guests were dancing had free run of the clubhouse. There was also a nursery for the little children who were supposed to get sleepy, but, according to Mrs. A. Boyce, who had the nursery in charge, there were very few of them that did any sleeping.

Prizes were awarded for both ladies and gentlemen in the prettiest costume and also prizes for the lady or gentleman wearing the lady or gentleman costume. A grand march was formed and the judges selected the winners. A Martha Washington, a witch, a Rodolph Valentino and a flapper costume were the prize winners.

Mrs. R. L. Woodhouse had charge of the fish-pond, and had a lot of fishermen, and before the evening was over there wasn't a fish left in the pond. The wheel of fortune that gave candy as prizes did a big business and it appeared that practically every one won a box of candy.

J. J. Broomhall contributed dahlias without number, and many of them were sold. Refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Sam Wisdom, and there was twenty-five gallons of cider used for the occasion.

INFALLIBLE

There's a little town down in Alabama where the entire population is black. Negroes run the town government and the schools even have an unofficial color where cases are tried. It happens that nobody in the court can read, but they don't need to, for Sam, the clerk, always remembers everything. Concerning Sam the colored folks told a story.

One day the devil came to town and announced: 'I've come for Sam. Sam's time is up and I'm going to take him.'

In great distress the judge answered:

"Mr. Debbit, you can't have Sam. We need Sam. Sam don't never forget nothin'."

"You mean to tell me," repeated the devil, "that Sam never forgets?"

"No, Mr. Debbit, never forgets nothin'."

So the devil, being a sporting gentleman, made the judge the proposition that Sam could stay for the time, but that if the devil ever caught Sam in a lapse of memory he should have him.

Then he went out to see Sam.

"Sam," he asked, "do you like eggs?"

"Yas, Mr. Debbit," replied Sam.

"Ah, does."

The devil disappeared and for ten years was not seen. Then he suddenly popped out of the ground one day.

"Sam," said he. "How?"

"Fried," said Sam.

RENAISSANCE IS SEEN IN RUSSIA

Cheap Gold Is Passing Now as Money Approaches Normal Value

MOSCOW — "The rise in the ruble is the symbol of Russia's financial and industrial renaissance," Michael Iyevlev, head of the Money Values Section of the People's Commissariat, said, in an interview.

"While the paper ruble is not falling, the gold ruble is rising to nearly its normal value," he declared. "Gold has been very cheap in Russia in comparison with Europe. This is due to the blockade and the consequent separation from the European market and our general lack of commercial connections. But now, with the extension of economic relations, gold assumes its true value."

"That gold is rising rather than paper falling is shown in general prices in Russia."

Food Prices

"Food prices in paper rubles are the same or lower; wholesale prices of butter and sugar show a 5 to 15 per cent increase, while during the last month the gold ruble has nearly doubled in value."

"The ruble today is 365 in paper rubles of 1922. We expect it to go to 400, when it will be at its normal value."

"The steadiness of the paper ruble from May to August is due to the collection of money taxes on business, and to the revival of trade, in addition to the good harvest. We knew in May last that the harvest would be good."

"Prior to 1922 we had circulated five billions of paper money, including 1922 rubles, one of which is equivalent to ten thousand old rubles. We have now in circulation nearly seventy billions besides two and a half billions of government notes issued this year."

Exchange Rubles

"After October 1 no one will be obliged to accept old rubles, but until January 1, 1923, the government will exchange one new ruble for ten thousand old rubles, on the basis upon which both have been freely circulating during the past year."

"We will exchange also Romanoff and Kerensky notes, which, measured in new rubles, amount only to ten and a half millions."

"The total to be exchanged, including government notes, makes one-tenth of the entire circulation. We recognize that the falling ruble operates as a heavy tax on the public, and we shall endeavor, by a strict budget, to stabilize its value by developing our tax system and by stopping paper issues on the present basis."

"At the beginning of next year banknotes, with a twenty-five per cent gold reserve, will replace 1922 rubles. We shall make no effort to circulate gold, but shall continue to supervise gold imports and exports. Smuggling is widespread and creates a strong demand for gold."

FORESTERS MEET TOMORROW NIGHT IN EAGLE ROCK

Plan Another Entertainment Soon; Correct Rumor Regarding Picture

The Eagle Rock court of the Foresters of America will meet tomorrow night in the Masonic hall on South Central avenue, Eagle Rock, according to Ray Rees, financial secretary.

A number of very important matters are scheduled to come up at the meeting, it is stated, and all members are urged to be present.

It is understood that this Eagle Rock lodge will soon give another entertainment similar to the one given some months ago that attracted so much favorable comment at the time.

Mr. Rees has asked the Eagle Rock Daily News to correct the rumor that $200 worth of chances were sold on the picture "Smiling Skies" that was raffled off at the last social event held by the lodge.

"There were exactly $34 in chances sold on the picture, and every penny of that amount went into the treasury of the lodge and not one cent of it went to me or any other individual," states Mr. Rees.

Frame Expensive

The frame of the picture itself is known to have cost almost as much as the entire amount received on the sale of tickets. The picture while a beautiful work of art naturally is difficult to appraise its true value, but was estimated to be worth at least $100, and, as a matter of fact, instead of making any money on the picture, the lodge actually lost money on it, this being the opinion of all the officers of the lodge.

When the final drawing of the tickets out of the hat was made at the last meeting of the lodge three tickets were first drawn out by three different members of the lodge who were blindfolded.

Two of the tickets bore the name of Lew Brummer, and the third was taken out by E. R. Saurborn. The three tickets were placed in another hat and the actual award was made from a drawing from these three tickets, Mr. Saurborn's ticket being the lucky one that was finally drawn.

C. of C. Officers to Meet Tomorrow

There is to be a meeting of the executive officers of the Eagle Rock Chapter of Commerce to be held at the residence of President O. J. Root, at 269 North Satsuma avenue tomorrow night. Several important matters are to come up for discussion. The chairman of the entertainment committee, Mr. T. Hancock, has been invited to attend the meeting so that details of the banquet to be held November 16 may be planned, and laid before the chapter at its next open meeting, Tuesday, November 7.

Scarce had the first suggestion of dawn lightened the eastern sky than Divine, who was again on guard, awakened Theriere. In a moment the others were aroused, and a hasty raid in the cached provisions made. The lack of water was keenly felt by all, but it was too far to the spring to chance taking the time necessary to fetch the much-craved fluid, and those who were to forgo into the jungle in search of Barbara Harding hoped to find water farther inland, while it was decided to dispatch Bony Sawyer to the spring for water for those who were to remain on guard at the cliff top.

A hurried breakfast was made on water-soaked ship's biscuit. Theriere and his searching party stuffed their pockets full of them, and a moment later the search was on. First the men traversed the trail toward the spring, looking for indications of the spot where Barbara Harding had ceased to follow them. The girl had worn heeled buckskin shoes at the time she was taken from the Lotus, and these left little or no spoor in the well-tramped earth of the narrow path; but a careful and minute examination on the part of Theriere finally resulted in the detection of a single small footprint a hundred yards from the point they had struck the trail after ascending the cliffs. This far at least she had been with them.

The men now spread out upon either side of the track. Theriere and Red Sanders upon one side, Byrne and Wilson upon the other. Occasionally Theriere would return to the trail to search for further indications of the spoor they sought.

The party had proceeded in this fashion for nearly half a mile when suddenly they were attracted by a low exclamation from the mucker.

"Here!" he called, "Here's Miller an' the Swede, an' they sure have mused 'em up turrible."

The others hastened in the direction of his voice, to come to a horrified halt at the sides of the headless trunks of the two sailors.

"Mon Dieu!" exclaimed the Frenchman, reverting to his mother tongue as he never did expect under the stress of great excitement.

"Who done it?" queried Red Sanders, looking suspiciously at the mucker.

"Head-hunters," said Theriere. "God! What an awful fate for that poor girl!"

Billy Byrne went white. "Yeh don't mean dat dey've lepped off her block?" he whispered in an awed voice.

Something strange rose in the mucker's breast at the thought he had just voiced. He did not attempt to analyze the sensation; but it was far from joy at the suggestion that the woman he so hated had met a horrible and disgusting death at the hands of savages.

"I'm afraid not, Byrne," said Theriere, in a voice that none of the harsh and masterful second officer of the Halfmoon.

"Yer afraid not?" echoed Billy Byrne in amazement.

"For her sake I hope that they did," said Theriere; "for such as she it would have been a far less horrible fate than the one I fear they have reserved for her."

"You mean—" queried Byrne, and then he stopped, for the realization of just what Theriere did mean swept over him quite suddenly.

There was no particular reason why Billy Byrne should have felt toward women the finer sentiments which are so cherished a possession of those men who have been gently born and raised, even after they have learned that all women are not as was the feminine ideal of their boyhood.

Billy's mother, always fount-mouthed and quarrelsome, had been a veritable demon when drunk, and drunk she had been whenever she could, by hook or crook, raise the price of whiskey. Never to Billy's recollection, had she spoken a word of endearment to him; and so terribly had she abused him that even while he was yet a little boy, scarce out of babyhood, he had learned to view her with a hatred as deep-rooted as is the affection of most little children for their mothers.

When he had come to man's estate he had defended himself from the woman's brutal assaults as he would have defended himself from another man—when she had struck, Billy struck back; the only thing to his credit being that he never had struck her except in self-defense. Chastity in woman was to him a thing to joke of; he did not believe that it existed; for he judged other women by the one he knew best—his mother. And as he hated her, so he hated them all. He had doubly hated Barbara Harding since she had not only been a woman, but a woman of the class he loathed.

And so it was strange and inexplicable that the suggestion of the girl's probable fate should have affected Billy Byrne as it did. He did not stop to reason about it at all—he simply knew that he felt a mad and unreasonable rage against the creatures that had borne the girl away. Outwardly Billy showed no indication of the turmoil that raged within his breast.

"We gotta find her, bo," he said to Theriere. "We gotta find the skirt."

SUPER-TANK NEW MACHINE OF WAR

Camera Obscura Reveals to Occupants All Details; Pumps Give Air

By F. A. WRAY
For International News Service.

LONDON.—If another great war occurs the British super-tank, now under construction, will deal devastation on a scale hitherto unthought of.

Ever since the armistice British armament firms have been experimenting on a tank which would produce maximum havoc among the enemy, with minimum risks to the occupants.

The chief essential was invisibility to hostile artillery, and as a large tank obviously presents a better target than a small one, compactness, consistent with efficiency, has become the recognized primary factor. Consequently the new design contemplates a crew of not more than six men.

To counteract any possible disadvantage in this respect the most marvelous ingenuity has been bestowed on the apparatus to provide a clear and wide vision to the tank crews and at the same time to safeguard them to the utmost against risks of exposure.

To see without being seen is a fundamental principle of tank warfare, and its attainment represents the successful solution of the difficulties which confronted those who took the first tanks into action in 1916.

No Longer Sightless

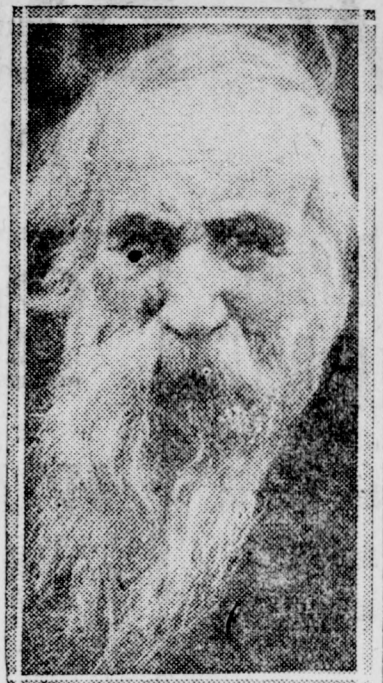

Gone are the days when a tank groped about the front line seeing its direction through primitive flap-screened spyholes. The modern tank is a traveling citadel of shot resisting metal, without apertures through which chance bullets can reach the occupants.

Yet every detail of the landscape is revealed to them by a species of camera obscura. Not only is every object within 500 yards shown to them on the screen, but mechanical devices are arranged in the interior by which the gun can be instantly turned on the desired target.

In other words, death and destruction will overtake the enemy the moment he is seen. Such is the precision that any object not smaller than a basket two feet by one can be hit with a certainty that is positively uncanny.

These eyes of death will in the future compel the enemy to keep his distance. Once within range in the open, escape is impossible for opposing infantry, as the speed of the latest tank enables it to pursue any body of men successfully, except over the most difficult country.

Fresh Air Supply
Inside this armored box of tricks a constant supply of fresh air is brought to the crews by automatic air pumps from below. Short respirators are worn by the men as a protection against the suffocating dust and cordite fumes which the suction of the air pumps may produce. These will be especially useful when passing over sandy deserts or parched vegetation.

For night attacks there are tanks which differ in essential details. They are equipped with searchlights and other means which are kept a profound secret—by revealing the hidden enemy.

In any event the newest tank differs as much from its forerunner of 1916 as does the latest battleship from the first constructed ironclad vessel.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

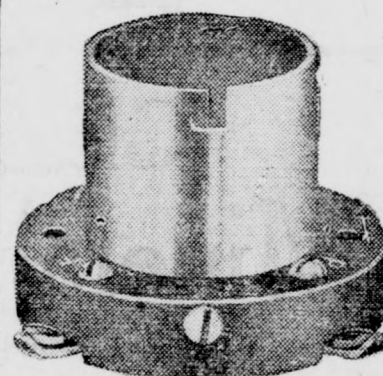

V. T. SOCKETS

In the preceding article we alluded to the above subject, and again illustrate a desirable design of a socket suitable for both transmitters and receivers.

The base is of a heavy molded bakelite providing adequate insulation for any purpose. The springs are of bronze, making good contact. They are so arranged as to make positive contact on the sides of the tube prongs. As a wiping, spring contact is made, a clean, positive connection is assured.

These spring contacts are heavy enough to carry, without arcing or heating, the heavy filament current of the 5-watt oscillator tube.

It is arranged to accommodate any of the standard American four prong tubes, including those transmitting tubes which have the locating pin placed 45 degrees away from normal.

NATURE OF ALTERNATING CURRENT

An alternating current is one in which electricity flows around the circuit, first in one direction and then in the opposite direction, the maximum value of the current in one direction being equal to the maximum value in the other. All the changes of current occur over and over again at perfectly regular intervals.

To get an insight into the nature of such a current, suppose a case where the alternations occur so slowly that they may be followed by the eye. The changes of current with an ammeter. In the table below are given values of the so-called "sine wave current" at successive equal intervals of time. The maximum value is taken as 10 amperes. The ammeter in such a case would creep slowly up to a maximum indication of 10 amperes, return gradually to zero, reverse its direction and build up to a value of 10 amperes in the opposite direction, and so on. It is, of course, to be understood that the current assumes in turn all possible values between zero and the maximum value of 10 amperes, and that the current has the same value throughout the circuit at every movement. The current in this case, with an ammeter, that of a steady current, may be regarded as like a flow of an incompressible fluid. The emf is, however, to be regarded here as a veritable electric pressure, which acts in one direction and then in the other.

Distraction
"What's the big idea of having a picture of your stenographer on your stationery?"

"To counteract the effect of her spelling and punctuation."

UNCLE WIGGILY'S DUSTING BRUSH

"Come, Uncle Wiggily! Please hurry and get out!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning. Uncle Wiggily, who was shaving in the bath room, heard his muskrat lady housekeeper's voice.

"What's the matter?" asked the bunny. "Is the hollow stump bungalow on fire, that you want me to get out in such a hurry?"

"Oh, no!" laughed Nurse Jane. "It's just that I want to do a lot of dusting. And if you stay around the bungalow some of the dust will get in your pink, twinkling nose and you may sneeze your ears off!"

"I wouldn't like that to happen," chuckled the bunny uncle. "I'll soon finish shaving and then I'll go adventuring. Oh, ho! Oh, ho! Adventuring I shall go—so—so—wah! Zipp! Zing! Woof!"

Uncle Wiggily suddenly stopped the song he had started and began to make funny noises. "What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane. "Did you cut yourself?"

"No, but I—wah—I got—zut! I got soap in my mouth!" spluttered Uncle Wiggily.

Nurse Jane closed the stairway door so Uncle Wiggily couldn't hear her laugh. The bunny finished shaving and then, dressed in his tall silk hat, with a flower for the buttonhole, he started out of the hollow stump bungalow.

Nurse Jane, with an apron tied over her head, was waiting with the dusting brush and cloths to make the bungalow clean and tidy.

"There is a lot of extra dusting to do today," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "It was Hal-lows' last night you know, and some of the animal children came in with a lot of confetti. They were looking for you, Uncle Wiggily."

"Yes, and I was out changing false faces with Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear, and what a trick he played on the Fox and Wolf! Oh, what a trick!" laughed the bunny.

"Well, hop along, I must finish my dusting! I never had so much to do," said Nurse Jane.

Uncle Wiggily hopped along, but he had not gone very far before he suddenly stopped and began to think.

"This is hardly fair," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, as he twinkled his pink nose. "Here I go off and have a good time looking for adventures, and Nurse Jane has to stay in the bungalow and do the dusting. It isn't fair! I should do a little dusting for her and then she'd have time to go to the movies. I wonder how I can get her out of the bungalow for a little while? If I could I'd slip back and do the dusting for her. And when she saw it finished she'd be so surprised as never was. I have it! I'll telephone and make believe I'm Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady. I'll ask Nurse Jane to come over for a moment."

Uncle Wiggily hopped along until he reached a telephone. Then he called up his bungalow. Nurse Jane answered.

"Oh, Nurse Jane!" spoke Uncle Wiggily into the telephone, trying to make his voice sound like the pig lady's, "could you come over and see me for a few minutes. I won't keep you long, for I know you have a lot of extra dusting to do."

"Why, yes, Mrs. Twistytail," said Nurse Jane, thinking it was the pig lady speaking. "I'll run over for a little while, though how you knew I had extra dusting to do I can't guess, unless Uncle Wiggily told you." There was a laugh at the other end of the wire.

Hopping in the woods not far from his hollow stump bungalow, Uncle Wiggily watched until he saw Nurse Jane go out. Then he hopped in the back way, and, putting on some old clothes, the bunny rabbit began to do the dusting.

He had done dusting before, once when Nurse Jane was ill, so Uncle Wiggily knew something about it. With the soft, tickling brush the bunny rabbit knocked the dust down off the table, piano and chairs, letting the dust fall to the floor where it could play tag with the rugs if it wished.

Just as Uncle Wiggily finished dusting the last room, all of a sudden he heard the front door open, and he called:

"Surprise on you, Janie, my dear!"

OUCH! LAME BACK, RUB LUMBAGO OR BACKACHE AWAY
Kidneys cause backache? No! Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica, or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil. Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small bottle of St. Jacobs Oil from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

Rob old, honest St. Jacobs Oil whenever you have sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains, as it is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin. Advertisment.

dear. It was I who telephoned, and not Mrs. Twistytail, and the dusting is all done. Surprise on Nurse Jane."

But instead of the jolly laugh of his muskrat lady housekeeper, Uncle Wiggily heard the growling voice of the Woosie Wolf cry:

"Surprise on Uncle Wiggily! And I guess you will be surprised when I nibble your ears!"

The Wolf had sneaked in when Nurse Jane went out and left the door open. Straight at the bunny

He fell down the cellar stairs rushed down, but Uncle Wiggily held the brush in his paw. The brush was full of dust.

"Here, smell of this!" cried the bunny to the Wolf and he tickled the bad chap with the dusty dusting brush. A lot of the dust got in the Wolf's nose.

"Ker choo! Ker choo! Zer koo zim!" sneezed the bad chap, and he sneezed so hard that he turned a back somersault and fell down the cellar stairs and he was so lame and bruised and sore when he picked himself up that he couldn't have nibbled a piece of cheese. Away he limped, growling and muttering, but Uncle Wiggily laughed and said:

"A dusting brush saved my ears!" And when Nurse Jane came back she was really very much surprised to see how clean the bungalow was.

And if the garage man doesn't try to put a horse shoe on the leg of the table and make it moo like a cow, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the cranberries.

RED PEPPER FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.—Advertisement.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Back-ache or Hot Bladder Trouble

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Big meat eaters can flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like they relieve the bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else they may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad they have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent various kidney and bladder disorders.—Advertisement.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WHY DO WE WANT TO FREEZE?

What is the cause of this mania for wearing as few clothes as possible that seems to have gotten hold of the younger generation today?

I don't mean fewer clothes in the sense of abbreviated bathing suits or sleeveless evening gowns, though if you try to think of our habits of 15 years ago they are startling. Remember the bathing suits, full and at least to the knees, that we wore as a matter of course? Remember how frightfully daring a sleeveless gown seemed then? Fancy what we would have thought of a high school girl in a sleeveless gown! It would have been an impossibility. Millions of yards of material must have been saved by the sleeves and hems we have chopped off our dresses.

Fewer as Well as Shorter But I was thinking of the reduction of clothes from the skin out.

One of our shops has recently been advertising an undergarment which combines three garments in one and with the addition of one garment and shoes and stockings makes the lady who wears it ready to put on her frock, thus reducing dressing to two garments and shoes and stockings. But the final recommendation of this is that it only weighs four ounces! Fancy! The simplicity and novelty of the garment are going to sell many thousands, but that final recommendation will sell them more.

Do you remember the days when ladies wore two petticoats as a matter of course, one short and one long? I do, and I remember when we dropped the under petticoat. And now petticoats simply do not exist. I don't suppose the modern girl has such a thing in her wardrobe. Slips to go under frocks that wouldn't set right without them she is obliged to wear, but the petticoat is non est.

She Prefers to Freeze But the most startling form of this mania seems to be the craze for insufficient clothing in cold weather. I know a woman who lives in a city where the winter climate is very cold, often running below zero. I have seen her start for the theatre on a cold November day with a frock and a little tiny neckpiece, arriving home at midnight after a trip of 15 miles, with no more protection. She wanted her husband to give her a larger fur, one of those shoulder pieces, and he refused because he said he knew she would make that do instead of a coat all winter. Yet she had a lovely fur coat. Incidentally, she is not a warm blooded person. "I suffer tortures from the cold," she says, "but I'm not going to bundle up."

Do you who live in the colder parts of the country remember the winter suits and coats that we used to buy—heavy wool cloth, nearly it is harmless, of course, but when it makes them try to keep using up their own bodily energy instead of conserving it by proper clothing, it is an idiotic thing. I hope we don't go back to the days of bustles and two petticoats and goodness knows, how many other undergarments, but I wish it might be fashionable to wear enough for warmth.

DINNER PARTY MANNERS

This is a busy world, too busy for the common courtesies at times. How often do we catch ourselves, after a real or fancied "break" in etiquette, hanging the full blame on the excuse of absent mindedness due to business. However, at dinner, host or guest, one surely can practice the little graces that represent good breeding, practice them until they become automatic.

In offering the following suggestions most of them will probably meet with inward exclamations of "as if!" and "as if!" from readers, but yet they are commonest errors and simplest corrections. Here are a few "don'ts."

Do not sit with elbow on the table.

Do not toy with food or buck the napkin under the chin or fold it when finished eating in a public eating place.

Do not mash food with a fork or comment on food at a dinner party.

Do not eat oyster cocktails with a spoon, stir liquids more than a second or so, and after using any of the silver for your food, knife, fork or spoon, do not retain it in your hand, but lay it on the table.

Do not throw out elbow while eating and do not lounge slothfully in your chair.

Of course, following the party, it is courteous to thank the hostess for her hospitality, but it is both awkward and unnecessary to repeat such to the host.

Approved Forms—It is one of the prettiest and most thoughtful of graces to rise when someone is taking leave of you, and in doing so to lay the napkin on the table. As to the napkin itself, unfold just once when you take your place at table, and lay it lengthwise across your lap. If you expect to use it again, fold it when rising from your place after the meal. Sit erect at table, keep your hands in your lap between courses and sit quietly. When eating, use the fork with the right hand and you may without being accused of gluttony partake of each course. Eat crackers broken in small bits, the same as bread, and the best table etiquette decries the habit of breaking a cracker into the bowl when taking leave. When leaving the house after the party, it is correct to take leave of both host and hostess.

Careful hostesses arrange chairs a slight distance from the table. It is more graceful and makes the matter of seating guests an easier affair. It is allowable to place the bread on bread and butter plates except at dinners, when it should be passed by the maid as needed. Or a crisp dinner roll may be folded in the dinner napkin. The host should allow all guests to precede him from the dining room.

A careful and thoughtful hostess will inform her guests, in an unobtrusive manner, whether or not the dinner is to be formal or the reverse. Since a dinner invitation is the highest compliment that can be paid a guest it is the guest's duty to repay the hostess by proper dressing for the occasion and to assist in making things go smoothly.

Whenever there is any doubt as to the best way to do a thing, it is wise to follow that which is most rational, and that will almost invariably be proper etiquette. To be at ease is a great step toward enjoying your own dinner, and making yourself agreeable to the company.

Finally, when rising from your chair, leave it where it stands. These trifling data sound absurdly simple, do they not? Yet a review of them is bound to suggest some point or another that you may have forgotten.

CHINESE WOMEN WANT PAY BOOST

Desperately Poor, Fare of Rice and Tea Cut Still Further

SHANGHAI—Ten thousand Chinese women employed in various silk filatures in Shanghai are striking for better pay and shorter hours of work.

The workers, who, at present work twelve hours at a wage of thirty-eight cents a day, are demanding a ten-hour day and an increase of five cents per day in their pay.

Early one morning recently more than one thousand workers, including young girls and old women, attempted to enter a number of filatures to enlist the sympathy of the workers, but a hurry call from the employers brought a detail of police, and the women were frightened away.

Women Stage Parade Prior to the attempt to enter the filatures the strikers paraded through the Chinese city carrying banners. The demonstrations were orderly, so the police did not interfere. The banners which the women carried bore Chinese characters, which are translated as follows:

"This is a republican world, where men and women should be equal. We are striking for the promotion of morality and the protection of the rights of humanity."

The women are uneducated, desperately poor and practically leaderless, so there is little hope of their winning the strike. Out of it is growing, however, the first efforts to form a guild of women workers in China.

Seeing the wonderful Chinese silks and satins in the Shanghai silk stores—roll after roll—rainbow hued, brocaded, flowered and striped, the tourist seldom thinks of the suffering and toil of the little slaves of China who helped produce the beautiful fabrics.

Often before sunrise the squeak of the wheelbarrows on which the filature workers are riding to work—ten or twelve on one wheelbarrow pushed by one coolie—is heard. The women begin their long day of toil at sunrise, relieving the night shift.

Many of the women are kiddy of 5 and 6, whose little fingers are blistered from the work, to bent and wrinkled grandmothers, who must toil if they would live. The women handle the baskets of silk worms, casting the worms into great vats of boiling water, and it is up to them to wind the silk from the cocoons, and in doing so their fingers and hands are burned and scalded.

Tiny babies lie at the feet of many of the women. They are kept at their work so closely, however, that there is little time to care for their little ones. The women carry their teapots to and from the filatures and bowls of rice and chopsticks in their lunch baskets, although in a number of the filatures the women are able to purchase hot rice. Just now rice is very expensive, and the bowls grow smaller and smaller. The rice and tea make up the mid-day meal of the workers.

Come From Country

The women come to Shanghai from the country. Many of them have accompanied their husbands, who are for the most part, "ricksha coolies, hawkers and street vendors." The police have arrested six of the leading women in the strike and are holding them in prison. According to report, the strike-breakers are going among the strikers and telling the women that their leaders will be shot unless they go back to work.

Book Reviews

It was in a little house in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, that Mrs. Morris wrote the beginning of "Certain People of Importance," in the summer of 1919 and it was during the same week of the same year that her writer-husband, Charles G. Norris, commenced his memorable novel, "Brass." After the war she spent several months in Brazil, and the book was commenced during this holiday, with no special plans for its immediate finish, and no date in mind for its publication. In the more than three years before it was completed Mrs. Norris produced several short novels for serialization, and some forty short stories, and lived in California, New York and Europe, but the "big novel" went with her wherever she went, and there was not a week in all that time, and perhaps hardly a day, when she did not work upon it. She found that this type of plotless, rambling story is infinitely harder, but more fascinating, to handle than the novel that is bound by the conventional walls of plot, character and crises.

"One," by Sarah Warder MacConnell. The MacMillan company, New York.

This delightful tale is, in a way, the reverse of Cytherea, of which it is reminiscent because of its fine tangle of sophistication. Here the same problem of the philandering male, but now from the angle of the wife. Alethea Mowbray, however, is no Fanny; no smug female drudge whose whole conception of wedlock is to cater to a man's animal comfort.

Alethea Mowbray is an exceptional characterization in American fiction. She is the very essence of those qualities which lend the sophisticated American woman her spice and charm. Disdaining to stoop to jealousy she accepts the more high-spirited role of competing for her husband's love against the many charms of the world. Her story of her fight for complete union with the man she loves makes splendid reading; it is also valuable reading because of the genuine insight into modern psychology with its problem of exaggerated individualism and relationship.

Diet and Health By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I told you yesterday that diphtheria antitoxin is not "filthy animal matter" swarming with disease, but that it is the pure serum taken from clean young horses which have been injected artificially with some diphtheria toxin and so have developed a strong defense and neutralizing product against the poison of diphtheria.

If a child has diphtheria and recovers from it, it is because the child's system has manufactured a defense which has overcome the poisons poured forth from the diphtheria germs which have settled in its throat. But it is absolutely criminal to take a chance on a child's manufacturing this defense when we have at hand a defense already manufactured by these young clean horses. Firms can be licensed to prepare antitoxin only by the U. S. Public health service, and all batches of antitoxin are tested by them.

Death from diphtheria is one of the most frightful modes of death, for the growing membrane leads to literal strangulation. One of the most miraculous and beneficial discoveries of all ages is that of antitoxin. Since this discovery the death rate from diphtheria has markedly lessened.

The potency of the antitoxin to combat the poisons is in direct proportion to the time it is administered. It has been shown that when antitoxin is injected at the first sign of the disease, there are no deaths. Oftentimes physicians who are in doubt as to whether a sore throat is a diphtheritic sore throat or not, will give antitoxin rather than wait until the report from the laboratory can come back.

Of about 2500 cases of diphtheria reported by the N. Y. Hospital for contagious diseases it was found that when antitoxin was given on the first day of diph-

STRONG SLENDER ANKLES

The pretty ankle is always slender, yet it is never too slender. It must appear to do its share in carrying the weight of the body. If it is too thin to seem to do this it loses all its attraction. Women who want to reduce their ankles must beware of reducing too much.

The ankle's shape is as important as its slenderness. This means that the leg above it must be well rounded and firm of muscle, otherwise there will be no graceful curve to show where the ankle joins the calf of the leg. The woman's figure will terminate in two straight sticks below the hem of her dress.

In this as in most problems of beauty, we come to the question of health. The woman who has lived a strenuous childhood and who still keeps up her interest in outdoor games is almost sure to be the possessor of enviably pretty ankles. She exercises enough to take off surplus fat and to keep the muscles elastic and strong.

The woman with the real problem is she who possesses thick ankles and no means of lively exercise. She will find that the easiest and best way for her special case is to take some foot and ankle exercises every night and if the bones and muscles seem weak, to bind the ankles during the day with long bias strips of unbleached muslin. This binding is a most effective way of reducing and strengthening the ankles but it is a temporary treatment. The real cure for ankle trouble is exercise.

You will need muslin strips several yards long. The end of one of these should be passed beneath the foot, the muslin is then given a few turns around the instep to the ankle carrying it over the instep to the ankle and so on round the ankle and calf of the leg.

Agnes C.—No one would be likely to have had the legs removed by the electric needle, as it would be a tedious and very expensive procedure. Bleach it by using a mixture made from peroxide and ammonia, in equal parts.

Jessie—I will be glad to mail a formula for making the lashes grow luxuriantly.

Edna W.—A girl of 19, 5 ft., 3 in., is not underweight at 117 pounds.

Pet.—In making a reduction of so much as 50 pounds, it is well to plan to take almost a year to effect this change, as the muscular tissues must be built up while all the time the fat is being consumed. The healthy way is to do this through the diet, and if you want to do it this way, I shall be glad to mail you full directions, on receipt of a s. a. e.

Tomorrow—An Old-Fashioned Treatment

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a prompt and quick reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

LOST COMPLETELY

An urchin was whimpering on a street corner when he was addressed by one of those kindly old gentlemen who are always hollering up.

"What's the matter, son?"

"I'm lost."

"Lost? Nonsense. You mustn't give up hope so quickly. Where do you live?"

"I don't know. We've just moved and I can't remember the new address."

"What's your name, then?"

"I don't know."

"What? Don't you know your own name?"

"No, I've forgot it."

Mother got married again this morning."

BOXING CARD IS OFFERED TONIGHT

Matchmaker Clinton Has a Well-Balanced Program for Glendale Fans

After a two-weeks' layoff the local lodge of Woodmen of America, headed by Manager C. L. Hare, will resume their weekly boxing schedule tonight at 1500 South San Fernando, with an all-star card of ring battles. Matchmaker O. M. Clinton has announced that tonight's fights give promise of being the most evenly matched and best bouts ever held in Glendale.

Heading the list will be a real go when Joe Kelly, hard-hitting Glendalean, one who has become a favorite with the local ring fans, faces Ted Southerner, the man who is reported to have "a sock in either hand." The former hails from the Central Athletic club, while the latter is a member of the Columbia Athletic club.

The semi-windup promises to be an exhibition of real action when Kid Essick of Glendale faces Jimmy West, Los Angeles brawler. These boys will weigh in at 122 pounds. In his numerous appearances in local rings during the past several months Essick has created a considerable following, and he is sure to make things interesting tonight for the Angeleno.

Local Product In Ring
Another match which is liable to create an unusual amount of excitement among the fans will be the Joe Eyrand-Battling Chico setto. In his initial appearance in Glendale two weeks ago Eyrand, who is a local product, won the hearts of the fans with a clean knockout over his opponent. He weighs 118 pounds.

The evening's program will be topped off with matches between "Kid" Sardine of the Central Athletic club and Young Jones of the Columbia Athletic club, and one between Jimmy Burns and "Frisch" Cleary, both of Los Angeles. The former bout will be at 110 pounds and the latter at 135 pounds.

Holding Inquest on Saturday's Contest

The bugs are still arguing over last Saturday's great contest between California and U. S. C., some followers of the former institution bemoaning the fact that their team was in a slump while many adherents to the southerners claim that the plucky Trojans would have at least held their opponents to a tie score had the breaks of the game been evenly distributed. There is no use for an argument on the subject, however, as it is hard to alter the mind of a football fan than it is to change a man's political views. Not a few of the arguments will be settled when the two great teams face each other next fall, following which new controversies will arise.

While it can be truly stated that the score would have been 0 to 0 if the Trojans had not been on the favorable side of three breaks which led up to each score there is no denying the fact that Andy Smith's crew, with the present lineup, is slightly stronger than the Cardinal and Gold. The edge is very slight, the advantage which rates them about one touchdown better than the Trojans being determined through the terrific line plunging of Morrison and the great punting of Archie Nesbit. Again, it may be only the prowess of Nesbit's talented toe which makes a difference between the two eleven. Had Baker not been injured so early in the game it is more than likely that he would have hit the line on an equal basis with Morrison.

Danny Kramer Wins Over Young Brown

Little Danny Kramer, the twister southpaw who has become one of the prime favorites among ring devotees in Southern California during the past few months, made good his promise last night when he decisively triumphed over Young Brown in the main event of the weekly boxing program at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena. Earlier in the week Kramer who went into the fight with a handicap of seven pounds against him, asserted that he was confident of overcoming his huskier opponent.

Kramer started out in earnest in the opening round, swinging a terrific left to Brown's chin in the middle of the round that sent him to the canvas for the count of five. From then on until the end of the period Brown was kept on the defensive, his groggy condition following the knockdown being almost enough to put him out of the running.

Kramer continued in the second round, Brown clinching throughout most of the going. He gave his best in the third, however, holding his aggressive opponent for even honor. The final spasm was the deciding factor, Kramer leading all the way.

Ray Shauer, who had been announced to appear in the semi-windup against Frankie Novie, failed to show up and he was substituted by a chap named Art Springer. The latter proved a thoroughly capable substitute, gaining the referee's decision through his slugging in the fourth round. The bout was a corker and was well received by the fans.

BIG UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL CAPTAINS

By WOOD COWAN

Charley Buell, who will captain Harvard this season, was about the smartest quarterback in the game last year. It was his clever headwork in the struggle that brought victory to the Crimson. This type of quarterback fits in with the Harvard system.

Haughton, crimson coach, believes that no quarterback who is bumped, roughed and trampled upon after carrying the ball, is clear headed enough to handle and run a team to the best of his ability. His system requires a quick thinking brain whose job is to direct the team, think out the play and the man to execute it; he believes that the quarterback is 95 per cent a general, who plans work for the ten men under him. This is the reason why, in the past few years, Harvard has developed so scintillating star quarterbacks.

Years ago, before football became complicated with the forward pass that brought on the open game—in the days when a quarter was more like a third half back, the position developed the Eckersalls and the Hoppers and the Jones. But even then, their respective machines of eleven men may have suffered in efficiency because of them. For a football team that depends upon the services of any one player "blows" the minute their opponents have him stopped—and the modern coach can pretty well take care of and spike the guns of any one man on an opposing team no matter how good he is.

Once in a while, you will find a man with the stamina to think clearly, call signals, and carry the ball; human motors, they are, who could do all this and run a team for all it can go—"Bo" McMillin for Center, and Devine of Iowa, for example. But the foundation of quarterback play that will stand up in the future, as the game comes to be played even more efficiently, will be the system that makes a quarterback the team's thinking machine, its directing general, seldom carrying the ball.

This, to our notion, is why

Buell is a great quarter. Lacking much of the weight of his rivals, he seldom runs with the ball, but even time he takes upon himself the responsibility of gaining ground, Buell has made good.

It was his splendid, elusive run back of a punt for forty-five yards through the entire Yale eleven last fall that put the Crimson in a position to score. He is a fine drop kicker, as well as an open field runner. Twice his boot has brought victory to his team. A shrewd, cool, confident director of play, he knows the game from whistle to whistle.

Buell is the pattern that coaches will be compelled to build their quarterbacks after as the game develops.

ANDY SMITH NOW BADLY ALARMED

Vikings Toughest Team for Bears to Beat, Says California Coach

By HERB WESTEN
For International News Service.
BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 1.—Strange, bat winged creatures hanging by their tails from football goal posts in Halloween array today prompted Coach Andy Smith of California's famous "wonder team" to admit that the phantom of January 1, 1922, when Washington and Jefferson held the Golden Bear to a scoreless tie in the mud at Pasadena, had come back to haunt him in the coming game in Seattle, November 11, with the University of Washington.

"The hardest battle of our 1922 schedule," Smith characterizes it. "I'm not fooling when I say that the Vikings are the toughest team we have to beat—much tougher than the University of Southern California. Why, they're mud horses. I tell you. And their line averaging 190 pounds, web-footed and rain-broke, is good for any kind of defensive football in that mud. They were born with umbrellas and brought up on galoshes."

Scared of Tie
"I'm scared of death of a tie. I am confident they won't score on us, with Nesbit putting between sixty and seventy yards between them and our goal posts, but whether we will be able to score is what is worrying me. It will be old-fashioned football and a real battle."

"The Bears are far from a perfect football machine as yet, and won't be until late this month," Smith declared that California will profit by Washington's State team mistakes and watch for the breaks.

"The lover sees in the glance of his beloved the same beauty that a sunset paints in the western skies."

ELECT RANDALL TO CONGRESS

Independent Aggressive Patriotic

Political independence is coming to the front. Scores of level headed Democrats will vote for a Republican for governor this fall. Hundreds of Republicans will vote for Randall for congress. Both in the interest of better government. Even President Harding has taken a stand along this line, sending a message to Texas Republicans to help the good Democrats to whip the bad Democrats.

"Vote the ticket straight" no longer fools the voter. He prefers to vote for straight, able candidates of his own choosing.

In these days when every section of the country has its professional baseball league or its district amateur organization it seems strange to come across someone who tells you, "It was not like this when I played baseball back in 1869."

The present generation knows nothing of these early days of baseball. There were no professional leagues in those days and the National League—the oldest league in baseball—only dates back to 1876. Naturally in the east there were many teams and combinations of teams, but out on the far Pacific coast there was not the same interest in baseball that was gradually growing in the east. Prior to 1869 there were teams on the coast and it was that same year when the Cincinnati Reds had won what was considered the baseball championship of the country that several San Francisco teams banded together and made a guarantee to bring the champions to the Pacific coast. The tour was arranged and the Cincinnati team played four games in San Francisco, defeating the Eagles 35 to 4; the Pacific 54-5; the Athletics, 76-5 and the Eagles in a second game 58-4.

The result of these games put life into baseball on the Pacific coast, but it was not until January 23, 1879, that the first baseball league was formed on the coast. On that date a meeting was held and "The Amateur Baseball League of California" was formed, this being the first actual league with jurisdiction over clubs to be formed.

Fifteen clubs belonged to the league. That no time was lost in getting the league into action is evidenced from the fact that the first games were played just three days after the formation of the league and they were the start of a schedule that decided the champion of the league. The honor of being the first league champion on the Pacific coast fell to a team named "The Buckeyes," and a few years later when professional teams displaced the amateur organizations many of the Buckeye team became the most famed ball players on the Pacific coast.

In the early days the teams selected fancy names in direct contrast to the present day amateur teams which usually adopt the name of some firm or industry and thereby get financial backing as an advertising project for the firm concerned.

Probably the first actual college baseball team on the Pacific coast was named The Bostons. It was composed entirely of students from the St. Ignatius college and regarded in those days as one of the fastest teams in the west, though it was not able to win the league title. The Bostons eventually went into the professional league and played into the final game of the season of 1881 against the Buckeyes for the professional title. More than five thousand people witnessed the game, the largest crowd to ever see a game in those early days of baseball on the coast. The betting was rampant and several thousand dollars changed hands on the game.

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Edition

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Seemingly, at least two members of the very correct Big Three are inclined to step out of the part from time to time; and, regardless of the old theories of zone plays, essay some of the more radical methods of the west and south. Imagine a Princeton team of a few years ago blandly throwing a forward pass from behind its own goal line for a forty yards as the Tigers did against Chicago last Saturday. No Tiger team, even in its most inspired moments, ever thought of such a play before.

The play was first introduced by Penn State in 1919 when the great Higgins sped down the side lines from kick formation to receive a goal line pass and go on for the touchdown that won the game.

It is our understanding that Yale, too, is disposed to forsake the conservative on occasions. It

The World Over

By FRANKLIN R. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Fumbling the ball and the missing of tackles has been so frequent this season as to raise the question as to whether or not the fundamentals and essentials of football have not been neglected at the expense of a lot of intricate plays?

Generally speaking, a team that is not well grounded in the fundamentals of the game will be at a disadvantage no matter how brilliant may be the strategy conceived. A twenty-yard gain is of comparatively little value if the runner drops the ball when he is downed and the opposing team gets it.

Occasionally there is a good excuse for missing a tackle in the open. In the case of a brilliant runner and dodger a single opponent may be eluded, but when two and three men of a team get their hands on a runner and, one by one allow him to squirm out of their grasp, it is not unreasonable to charge the coach with having neglected to drill his men in an A. B. C. of the game which is all important.

In a recent game played on the Pacific coast between the teams of the Olympic club and the University of California, the club men made up of eastern stars of college teams of the past, fumbled the ball no less than ten times. In eight of these fumbles the ball was recovered by the clubmen, but there is little need to dilate on the disastrous effects, for practically every fumble means, at least, many yards lost to the team.

In the same way, missed tackles add yards to the opponents' tally who, of right, should not be there. There is no need to stress the fact that the gaining of ten yards in four downs is a laborious process and for a team to carry the ball down the field for any distance is a tremendous strain in being put on the men. Hence to lose yardage through the medium of a fumble or a missed tackle can be nothing more or less than a grave setback and an additional strain, for the psychological effect also must be taken into consideration.

There is a tremendous psychological effect on the man directly due to the effects of a reverse occasioned by a fumble or a missed tackle. It means the undoing of a work that has been achieved only by the hardest kind of playing. Hence the thorough practice of the fundamentals of football, how to hang on to the ball or the man when once you get them play so important a part on the morale of a team that the coach that slurs over them in order to develop intricate plays is not playing fairly by the man under his charge. Men who have watched the game for many years seem to think that there is more fumbling and a poorer quality of tackling than that which obtained a score of years ago, and this not counting the handing of the ball in aerial attack.

It was noted, also, that Yale showed a tendency to abandon the punt on all first downs in its own territory. It was the same with Harvard against Centre college, a cross buck from kick formation being the first play and a punt the second, provided the line plunge was not altogether productive of happy results.

The theory of the big three football, hitherto, has called for a punting game under almost any provocation, the idea being to wait for the break. While they have been waiting, however, some smaller teams have had the temerity to go out and make their own breaks, with unfortunate results.

A LUCAS SMITH

A Lucas Smith, former resident of Glendale, passed away yesterday, Tuesday, October 31, 1922, at his home, 3218 University avenue, Los Angeles.

Mr. Smith, who was a retired building contractor, was born in Huron county, Ohio, March 16, 1835 and was 87 years of age. He came to California fifteen years ago. About a year and a half ago he moved to Los Angeles from Glendale.

Mr. Smith was a member of the Crocker Post at Des Moines, Iowa, of the G. A. R. He was a thirty-second degree Mason and belonged to F. M. A. No. 2 of Des Moines. He was a member of the Congregational church of Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Thursday, November 2, 1922, in the Little Church of the Flowers, in charge of Pulliam, Kiefer & Eyerick.

B. R. Baumgardt to Lecture at School

How to gaze at the stars properly and the effect of the moon upon the tide and the untied will be explained tomorrow at Glendale Union high school.

"The Latest From the Heavens," is the title of an illustrated lecture on astronomy to be delivered by B. R. Baumgardt.

A large number of honors have been conferred upon Mr. Baumgardt. He is a member of the National Geographic society of Washington; the American Geographical Society, New York City; the Gamut Club and the University Club of Los Angeles and the Explorers' and Transportation clubs of New York City.

Mr. Baumgardt has traveled extensively and is the author of several books on astronomy and owns a private observatory.

Every one connected with the high school who has ever been blighted by Old Sol or moon-struck by Luna ought to hear this lecture, in the opinion of Earl T. Brown, head of the science department.

Garbage Cans Said to Indicate Wealth

AKRON, O.—K. Webb, secretary of the Akron Bureau of Public Work, claims garbage cans are the best barometer of the social life of a community.

Because 1834 tons of garbage were disposed of by the city in one month, Webb believes the city is growing more prosperous. The collection for August exceeded by 135 tons that of the same month last year, and indicates, according to Webb's reasoning, that the city socially is at least 10 per cent better off.

Find Missing Girl Wandering in Woods

MUSKEGON, Mich., Nov. 1.—Wandering in the woods in a dazed condition, Rosalie Shanty, missing Muskegon 12-year-old swimming champion, was found last night near Dublin, Mich., according to a telegram here by the police today.

MISTAKE IN ANNOUNCEMENT
Mrs. William McMillan, chairman of the card room committee for the dance and card party given Saturday night at Masonic Temple by the members of the White Shrine, states that through error the name of Mrs. Kate Cronkhite was given instead of that of Mrs. Calkins as winner of the consolation prize. She states that Mrs. Cronkhite assisted the members of the refreshment committee.

VETERANS MEET TONIGHT
Spanish War veterans will meet tonight in American Legion hall, according to an announcement this morning by Commander W. H. Reeves.

The key to the rear door of the Russell-Pierce Furniture company's factory at 1529 South San Fernando road, which was left unlocked last night, was brought to the police station by Officer D. L. Fleming.

ASSISTANT POUNDMASTER
J. P. Tucker of 744 Elmira street, Pasadena, has been appointed an assistant poundmaster by Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police.

H-I-Y SECTION MEETS
W. G. Boyd's section of the H-I-Y met at his home at 320 North Jackson street Monday night for a short business meeting. Neale Fooy, the president, presided and several new rules were voted. Following the business meeting refreshments were served and a few athletic demonstrations indulged in by the boys. Those who enjoyed the evening were Neale Fooy, Jimmy Fife, Shirley Preston, Freeman Brandt, Riley Lyons, Lysle McAllister, Alex MacDougall and Kenneth Lee.

IN THEIR NEW ROBES

Omar Tent No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, of which Mrs. Orma V. Naudain is worthy high priestess, will hold their first initiation with their new robes at the regular meeting tonight at Masonic Temple. Special guests for the evening will be the members of the Hollywood Shrine and also of Manetho Shrine of Los Angeles.

RALLIES TOMORROW

Glendale will have an old-fashioned political rally tomorrow—a parade headed by a G. A. R. rifle and drum corps, a meeting at Brand and Broadway at 10 a. m., an evening meeting at the intermediate school auditorium at 8 o'clock. Charles H. Randall, Oliver W. Stewart and other speakers will make addresses.

RUSSIA'S FAMINE YEARS DESCRIBED

was dug where the Kama river flows into the Volga and was mixed with some of the weed flour to make the bread. These bread samples are only hints of what the famine days were in Russia, for in a small collection of pictures Elder Boettcher has with him one sees children digging through the snow into filthy dumps to find insects and worms to eat; fugitives clothed in rags who have died from starvation and exposure while fleeing from oppression; groups of emaciated children and adults huddled together in death.

Other pictures show vendors of mice, cats, rats and dogs, rare delicacies in the days when the famine bread kept hundreds of thousands of starving people barely alive.

He is also in possession of a letter written only June 23, 1922, stating that recent conditions have also been serious and that grease, potatoes and bread have been extremely scarce.

Conditions Serious
Elder Boettcher was stationed at Riga but was banished in 1915 and went to Saratov on the Volga, but conditions became so serious for him and with no assurance from the American ambassador of safety he secured a passport and returned to the United States.

Because of war times he was not permitted to take a direct route but was sent over Siberia, through Japan, to Vancouver and on east. At the time he secured his passport there was a woman asking for a passport to England and to reach her home in Russia necessary for her also to go through Siberia and across Canada, which meant a trip around the world to reach her home.

The Seventh-day Adventists are carrying on their Russian work through their representative, Karl Sutta of Latonia, to whom they have sent $50,000 for relief work. There are several Seventh-day Adventist churches in Russia and plans are for establishing hospitals.

Programme Outlined at P.-T. A. Meeting

The P.-T. A. committee on community service, comprising the presidents and playground chairmen of all the P.-T. A. organizations in the city, met yesterday afternoon at the Wilson avenue school to discuss the general program they contemplate taking up during the coming year.

Plans were made for interesting Glendale's 2,600 P.-T. A. members in Glendale Community Service organization and activities and a smaller committee appointed to working out these plans.

Normal C. Hayhurst was named chairman, and he will be assisted by Miss Vera Sinclair, Miss Land, Mrs. O. W. Esselman, H. E. Bremner, Miss Ross and A. T. Blanchard.

One of the plans of this committee is to provide a community service speaker for every P.-T. A. meeting held in the city schools.

Irregulars Capture Big Wireless Station

DUBLIN, Nov. 1.—Republican irregulars today captured the Clifden wireless station, one of the biggest in Great Britain. This was the second time the station has been held by Irish rebels. Troops are being massed in the region of Clifden to attempt to re-take the wireless station.

Double Tragedy Is Re-enacted at Scene
HAVRE, Mont., Nov. 1.—In the subdued silence of the closed and darkened house where the tragedy occurred, the shooting of the Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church and Mrs. Margaret Carleton was re-enacted yesterday under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Pyle, mother of the dead woman.

It was an intensely dramatic scene. The drawn shades, the electric lights uncessantly burning to combat the darkness of the stances of the shooting; the grouped newspaper men and the desperate mother alert in every muscle, standing within ten feet of the spot where her daughter's body was found. Refusing to spare herself the pain of the weird re-enactment and with only an occasional shiver to indicate the strain of the scene she was calling to her mind, Mrs. Pyle relentlessly continued the enactment of the shooting.

Her voice, thrilling with emotion, Mrs. Pyle declared: "It couldn't have been possible," after the actors had gone through their part in depicting the tragedy.

Campaign Slogan of Mayor Is New One

MADRAS, Ore.—"More water for washday."

That is the campaign slogan of one of the candidates for mayor of Madras.

As might be supposed, the candidate who is starting on that platform is a woman, Mrs. Grace Hays Shugert, who heads the "Citizens' Ticket."

"More water for washday" is only one of the many problems to be solved in the administration of city affairs, but this is the closest to our hearts at present," said Mrs. Shugert.

She explained that the well which furnishes water for the local supply soon becomes exhausted on "wash day" and that many housewives are compelled to wait for it to refill before they can fill the line with clean clothes.

The early bird that catches the worm has nothing on the industrious housewife of Madras, continued the woman mayoralty candidate. "If she rises at 5 a. m. she may be fortunate enough to have her washing swinging in the sunshine before the water is exhausted, but woe unto the late riser who will be only half way through the dreaded task when she must await a further supply of water."

Thursday Club Has Open Forum Session

The members of the Thursday Afternoon Club of Glendale, of which Mrs. William C. Mabry is president, held an open forum meeting last night at the Cerritos avenue school. The program was in charge of Dr. Jessie A. Russell and the thirty measures on the November ballot were discussed by Ray Reams, Dr. Dana Tasker, Dr. J. H. Gilkerson, Bert P. Woodward and C. E. Anspach. The hall was well filled and the members of the audience expressed their gratitude to the speakers at the close of the meeting.

Interest Is Shown Lamp Sales Contest

Enthusiasm in the Mazda lamp selling contest, which is being conducted by the J. A. Newton Electric company, is meeting with the full support of the general public, according to an announcement issued today.

"The idea of the novel contest," Mr. Newton states, "is to introduce Mazda lamps in every home in Glendale."

The junior salesmen who are leading in the contest follow: John Simpson, Woodruff Toal, Hess Trader, John Dietrich, Richard Randall, Harry Ridge, Frederic Appleton, Eugene Kellogg.

Social Events

JUNIOR COTILLION MEETS

The first assembly of the season for the members of the Junior Cotillion, which was organized last year with a membership of thirty young people, took place last night in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium with Mrs. E. L. McCourt, Mrs. W. S. Ingram and Mrs. J. H. Searies as patronesses. The regular meetings of this dancing club, hereafter, will be held the last Saturday of each month from 7:30 o'clock until 10.

Members of the club include Mabel Todd, Dorothy Hertzog, Jean Ingram, Elizabeth Walker, Leona Hunt, Virginia Caldwell, Katherine Stanley, Evelyn Edwards, Estella Roberts, Miriam Letts, Nyla Chapman, Alberta Plasterer, Viola Van Pelt, Anna Marjorie Phillips, Alice Ducey, Dewey McCourt, Leighton Taylor, Charles Beamon, Charles Flynn, Homer Seagles, Kenneth Hellyer, Alexander McPherson, Port Townsend, Robert Ayars, Glenn Cunningham, Ralph Russell, John Winger, John Franklin, Alexander Chase and Harold Beggs.

ENTERTAIN FIFTY GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Gallup of 1301 Central avenue entertained a group of fifty guests, who had been former friends in the southern section of North Dakota and are now residents of Long Beach, Los Angeles, Burbank and Glendale. The large rooms were most artistically decorated in autumn leaves, Halloween emblems and motifs. A delicious lunch was served during the evening.

MRS. ENGLAND HOSTESS

Mrs. Frank England of 120 West Burchett street will entertain the members of the women's guild of St. Mark's Episcopal church, of which Mrs. Mortimer Baker is president, at an English tea at her home tomorrow, Thursday, afternoon from 2 o'clock until 5 o'clock.

JOLLY 12 ENTERTAINED

The members of the Jolly Twelve were entertained very pleasantly Tuesday night when Mrs. B. F. Geiger of 428 North Kenwood street and Mrs. C. E. Russell were joint hostesses at a Halloween party at her home.

The guests had been invited to a dinner at Mrs. Russell's and arrived to find a card out with "The witches will get you, so run to the Geigers." The rooms were gaily decorated with pumpkins, black cats, witches with many weird effects.

The guests were in costume and wore masks. The evening was spent with various Halloween games and stunts. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Haw, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Spickerman, Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Boicourt, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Russell and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Geiger.

HALLOWEEN DINNER PARTY

Miss Lillian Shropshire of 1841 South Brand boulevard entertained a group of friends at a Halloween dinner party at her home recently. The guests included Miss Grace Crampton, Miss Alice McCoy and Miss Leta McCoy of Glendale, Miss Claire Jenn of Burbank, Miss Dolly Jones, formerly of Glendale and now of Los Angeles, Miss Gertrude Rock and Miss Ethel Connon of Los Angeles. Table decorations were carried out in the Halloween colors and motifs.

Mrs. Chalmers Day of 810 South Maryland avenue is to be

Claim Los Angeles Wealth Leads State

LOS ANGELES—According to official figures compiled by the state controller's department, Los Angeles is the one "billion dollar county" in the state, it having reached the staggering sum of $1,573,418,167 in valuation of its assessed real and personal property.

There is no hazard or guess on these figures which give Los Angeles so dominant a place in the leadership in the state. They are collated from the official reports of the assessors and auditors of the fifty-eight counties of California, from the records of the state railroad commission and from other sources of an official nature.

The principal item of wealth comes from land valuation, a total of 1,283,223 acres being assessed for $648,214,535 under this heading. Other values on real estate, $358,560,840; personal property, $244,343,104; railroads, $33,379,531, with other minor totals under the headings of money and solvent credits and items of lesser importance.

Huge Total Reported
The huge total reported gives Los Angeles more than 30 per cent of the total wealth of the state, and almost double that of San Francisco, the second county on the list, which shows a valuation of $858,062,426.

Another item in the report which will attract the attention of the taxpayer is that Los Angeles county with an inside tax rate of $1.31 and an outside rate of $1.81, enjoys lesser taxation than any other of the larger counties and is only equalled in this respect by five of the smaller of the fifty-eight counties.

Further outstanding in the figures from the controller's office is the report in county indebtedness, which shows only $2,054,000 in funded debt and $907,329 in floating indebtedness, a total of $3,612,329, an item so infinitesimal in comparison with the total wealth as to place the credit of the county on as high a plane as that enjoyed by any like political subdivision in the United States.

GIVE HALLOWEEN PARTY

Mrs. J. E. Smythe of 306 East Windsor road and Mrs. F. R. Fisher were hostesses at a Halloween party given Saturday night at the summer home of Mrs. Fisher in Benedict canyon, Beverly Hills. There were thirty guests present, those from Glendale including Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Holgate, Dr. and Mrs. Renman, Mr. and Mrs. James F. McBryde, Miss Louise Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Osler, G. A. Jaques, W. C. Anspach, Eugene J. Mix, Mrs. T. H. Ragsdale and Mrs. E. L. Lamb. Dancing and Halloween games were enjoyed and at midnight supper was served. Decorations were carried out in the orange and black colors and motifs suggesting the Halloween season.

MRS. W. C. REITH HOSTESS

Mrs. W. C. Reith of 1101 East Wilson avenue entertained with a Halloween party at her home last night for her daughter, Wilhelmina. All of the guests were masked and in Halloween costume. Decorations and lunch, in addition to the games, were in keeping with the Halloween season. A feature of the evening's fun was the foretelling of the future by a "gypsy" fortune teller. Those present included Julia Kelley, Ann Elizabeth Wilkinson, Nora Wing, Dorothy Buss, Alma Gaulparr, Kenneth Lewis, Frank Wykoff, Charles Buss, Fritz Wilkinson, Kermit Ehrman of Burbank, Dorsey Mottern and Wilhelmina Reith.

CALL SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of Glen Eyrie Chapter, order of the Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Fannie Mae Parke is worthy matron, is called for Friday night, November 3, to honor Mrs. Cora Hickman Stearns, who instituted the local chapter and has just returned from a three months' visit in the east, with a social evening. This meeting is for members of Glen Eyrie chapter only.

GIVES DELIGHTFUL PARTY

Mrs. Elmer Blake of 423 West Lexington drive entertained yesterday afternoon with a delightful Halloween party for her children, Charles and Buddy. The house was decorated in orange and black, with spooky witches, cats and owls much in evidence. The afternoon was spent in playing games appropriate for the occasion, and delicious refreshments were served, also being carried out in the Halloween colors. Favors of cups and horns were given to the guests. Those present included Helen Kennedy, Virginia Harvill, Maria DeLaurentis, Billy Kennedy, Russell and Lewis Hayward, Charles and Betty Blake and Junior Blake. Mrs. Blake was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Paul Harvill.

JOLLY HALLOWEEN PARTY

One of the jolliest impromptu Halloween affairs was that taking place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kirkman at 630 North Jackson. Black cats, witches and jack-o'-lanterns were much in evidence and Halloween games of all kinds added to the merriment of the evening.

The company included Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Emery and son Jack, Mr. and Mrs. George Karr, Mrs. Rusby, Mrs. Clark Johnson and daughter Fern, Ed Nisley and Mary Emma Miner.

GLENDALE LAUNDRY SERVICE SIMPLIFIES ENTERTAINING

Our laundry service simplifies entertaining because it solves the difficult question of table linen. Those who depend on a laundress will, perhaps, find, when they are ready to entertain, that the linen they specially wanted for the occasion is not available, either because the laundress has failed to come or has done a poor job.

Those, however, who use the Glendale Family Wash Service can always be SURE of exquisitely laundered linen, for Glendale Laundry service is as regular and reliable as it is efficient and thorough, and you can call it WHENEVER YOU NEED IT.

THEATRES

The Glendale

The cleverest kind of comedy with star cast, coupled with breathless action, is "The Ladder Jinx," the chief attraction now being shown at the Glendale theatre.

If you have any doubts about your pet superstitions and want to hold onto them, better see "The Ladder Jinx." At least it will convince you that if you do or don't do thus and so, a lot of things might happen to you.

Another feature of the bill is Larry Semon in his latest comedy film, "Golf."

The T. D. & L.

Halloween was celebrated last night by almost 2,000 Glendaleans by attending the T. D. & L. theatre, where "The Old Homestead" is being presented.

"The Old Homestead" is acclaimed the greatest heart-interest picture seen for months and it is indeed the one real American classic.

Theodore Roberts, the veteran character actor, gives in Uncle Josh his greatest interpretation. In fact, the whole film story will live long in the minds and hearts of all who see it.

Leader of Fascisti Sends Out Messages

ROME, Nov. 1.—Premier Benito Mussolini, head of the new Fascisti government, today sent messages to the heads of the American, French and British cabinets that he intends "to rule in accordance with international usage and will do his utmost to maintain the entente among the allied powers."

After receiving in audience the minister of Jugo-Slavia, Premier Mussolini said he was hopeful that the border situation would be cleared up quickly in a manner satisfactory to both Italy and Jugo-Slavia.

Premier Mussolini has addressed a stern letter to the Italian prefects demanding that the chamber of deputies convene on November 15 and that the elections be postponed until spring.

Communist and socialist members of the chamber have gone into seclusion.

Mussolini indicated that he would conduct the government with military strictness. All the employes must be at their desks at a certain time and each must be responsible for his allotted tasks.

'Black Hand' Hurls Bomb Into House

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—A bomb hurled into the home of George Collour here early today partly demolished the house, rocked nearby buildings and smashed many windows, causing a dozen or more families to flee to the street.

Collour recently received a "black hand" letter warning him that his home would be blown up if he did not pay the writers $1000.

Members of the chamber have gone into seclusion.

Mussolini indicated that he would conduct the government with military strictness. All the employes must be at their desks at a certain time and each must be responsible for his allotted tasks.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

GLENDALE PROPERTY

Glendale Property of Today is a Good Investment

We can show you where you get your money's worth when you buy in Glendale—we have a number of exceptional good buys that will not last. We are always glad to show you. Just call and we will come and get you and then we do not put you on a street car or let you walk if you can't agree with us on the price. WE KNOW OF A FEW BROKERS WHO DO
THESE THINGS—they come and go—we stay.

We advertise only bargains, for stance—

What do you think of this?
Duplex, 4 rooms each side, 2 bed rooms; rents for $70.00 per month, and we can sell today for $6,800, $2,900 cash, bal. mo.

Don't take our word for this but let us show you—we know it's too good to believe. Duplex, 5-rooms each side, mod., well arranged, about year old; you can't build the house for the price, and we've decided to let the lot also for the price, $7,100, $2,000 cash,
bal. mo. rents for $80.00 per mo.

Then, if it's a real home you want we have a dandy in a North Central; eleven rooms, beautiful finished and complete, every way, and not a buy but a steal.
We are ashamed to quote the price, WHY? Because you will say it can't be bought at that.

It costs money to advertise, gasoline is getting cheap, so we can show you cheaper than we can tell you here.

Woman Dead, Thirty Houses Destroyed

WEBB CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—One woman is dead, thirty houses are totally destroyed and property damage estimated at $50,000 as the result of a tornado which struck here shortly after midnight, according to estimates made today.

The dead woman has not been identified. Six other persons are in hospitals suffering from injuries received. Search was being conducted in the ruins of this mining town this morning in the belief that other bodies may be recovered. Several persons are reported missing and it is feared some of them are dead.

During the world war the percentage of losses in the French army by age shows that the 20-year-old soldiers, both officers and men, suffered most, an average of 29.2 per cent.

Fascisti and Servian Forces Now Fighting

BELGRADE, Nov. 1.—Fighting between members of the Italian Fascisti and Servians has broken out at the frontier near Subhak, according to word received here today.

The coup by which the Fascisti seized power in Italy has caused considerable nervousness in Yugoslavia.

It was reported that the fighting on the frontier was becoming more and more serious and that there had been a number of casualties on both sides.

The Servians were reported to be preparing to mobilize in the western provinces.

Of the forty-four trees planted on the campus of Georgetown university, each in memory of a student-soldier killed in the world war, all flourished but one.

FILIPINOS DEMAND DUTY BE PLACED ON U. S. GOODS

Islands Would Demonstrate Economic Independence, Seek Nationalism

MANILA.—The Filipino press is seething over the question of free trade with the United States, which was established by the Payne-Adams tariff and has resulted in the islands marketing about 75 per cent of their products in America, while the embroidery industry, sixth among the leading exports, depends entirely on the American market. Of Manila hemp the United States takes, in value, 75 per cent and in quantity 50 per cent.

Judge Juan Sumulong, leader of the Democratic party, has suggested that the Philippines should be given a chance to prove their economic independence as a basis for their political independence; and so he thinks the tariff ought to be applied to American goods, as it is to foreign goods, or free trade established with all the world.

Papers Back Idea. El Debate, a Filipino morning paper published in dialect and Spanish, and the Herald, Filipino paper published in dialect and English, both gladly back the proposal, El Debate saying: "In exchange for sugar, tobacco, coconut oil and Manila hemp, which we place on the American market, America floods our country with all kinds of manufactured articles, reserving to herself a sort of monopoly in our commerce to the advantage of her interests. We are without any power to choose what is best for us economically, and we are forced to digest everything America wants to place on our markets."

Congress controls the Philippines because Spain ceded them to the United States, and most of the land is public domain belonging to the American people. But Senator-elect Juan Alegre, with more or less a Spanish view of things, says: "I am strongly in favor of our having the right to legislate on our tariff policies. This is endorsed by Dr. T. H. Pardo de Tavera, another Spanish half caste of renown, a venerable figure in affairs here, who also goes back to a favorite notion of his—shared by many Americans, but always overwhelmed by Filipinos—that the Chinese exclusion laws should not apply here and that the islands ought to be free to all Asiatic immigration."

Nationalist Move. This is the forerunner of a second radical "national" movement, apparently, and when the legislature convenes "national" measures of a new type may be expected. A few years ago it was "national" corporations, removed from the gold reserve funds; now, in order to prove economic independence, it is likely to be a movement to abolish free trade with the mother country. Some commentators are willing "because of gratitude" to enter into a treaty with the United States whereby American goods would pay less duty than those of other countries, after independence, and Philippine products, in return, would enjoy preferential rates with America.

Free entry of sugar alone means $10,000,000 in a single season to the islands. But the islands produce one product indispensable to America—Manila hemp. The United States also takes 95 per cent of the coconut oil, and is expected to buy 100,000 tons of this product this year, having bought 52,400 tons out of the 52,600 tons produced and exported during the first half of the year. America sells about $150,000,000 worth of goods to the islands in a year, but the balance of trade is in favor of the Philippines.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Advertisement.

Missing Chicago High School Girl Is Found

MARGARET DAVIS. For more than a week the police department of Chicago had been trying to get some trace of Margaret Davis, a 14-year-old high school girl, when Fred Backhaus, of Bossello, Ill., notified the Chicago police that the girl had obtained a position on his farm clothed as a boy. While she was working there, Mr. Backhaus and his wife became suspicious and after seeing pictures of her, discovered who she was.

PRESIDENCY NOT YOUTHS' AMBITION

Poll of New York Schools Show Boy Students Do Not Like Politics

NEW YORK.—The time has gone by when every boy was supposed to have designs on the presidency of the United States. Perhaps it is because no one wants to shoulder the Herculean burden, or that there is more money to be made in plumbing; but, at any rate, in a psychological test recently administered by Dr. Louise Poull, psychologist at Children's hospital, Randall's Island, N. Y., among 548 boys in the public schools of Manhattan, in which they were asked to write down what they wanted to be when they grew up, only one boy indicated that he would be Mr. Harding's successor.

And that one vote was cast as third choice in his favorite professions.

That he will have a hard time finding a vice president was evinced when only one in the 548 boys preferred that post, and that as a second choice.

Tinkering With Cars. "Motor car mechanics" they would be in the main, for that received the most first choice votes in the list of over one hundred occupations, ranging from every branch of skilled mechanic, clerical worker and professional man to scientific explorer.

"Engineer" came second on the list, followed by electrician. "Doctor" led in the choice of professions, with actor as a close second. Chauffeur was the sixth choice of the boys.

In the second choice which they were allowed, "mechanic" seemed to be the most favored as a life work.

The old ideal of every youngster's wanting to be a fireman seems to be passing, for the fireman's job received only a negligible number of votes. The policeman had a few more than his fire-fighting brother. Nick Carter and Sherlock Holmes are losing their followers, for only two of their disciples asserted themselves in the test. And only one would be Babe Ruth!

Literature and art are not entirely dead within the breast of youth, for eighteen would be artists while five would be authors. And not a one would be a Shelley or Keats, while seventeen aspire to be errand boys. Two of the number would dare to be newspaper reporters, and the post of scientific explorer made its appeal to a single soul.

No Ministers There. Absolute "No"—not even a third choice, came after the following occupations: Cook, engraver, insurance man, janitor, waiter, poet, missionary, jockey, adventurer. Nary a minister in the flock, but six who would be priests. Just when it looked as though every one would have to trim his own hair, one said he would be a barber. Two would grace the bench and be judge.

Greatly in the minority were the boys who would be laborers, photographers, teachers, waiters, tailors, wrestlers, real estate men and druggists.

That some boys wished they had been born girls seemed evident when they showed a preference for work usually found in the feminine world. Six want to be cooks, one wants to be a dress-maker, one a milliner, one a librarian, two stenographers, two telephone operators, two typists and one a mother's helper.

PREMIER ASSERTS HAMLET LIFE DULL

'Main Street' Unattractive to Native Inhabitants, So Says Lloyd George

By THOMAS C. WATSON. For International News Service. LONDON.—Lloyd George has teamed up with Sinclair Lewis in his attacks on the unattractiveness of life in the small towns.

Fresh from his heart-breaking, herculean task of trying to straighten out an international tangle, the premier returned to his native Wales, and in his own language, told the small-town Welshmen the danger that existed in their own unattractive small towns.

Lloyd George was the president at a small social affair held in a village described in the time table as Llanystrudwy, but pronounced "Shlan-ees-tum-dwee."

"You cannot get people to live in a village unless you make life worth living," said Lloyd George. The deacons of the church gulped down their impulses to protest, but uttered into their beards impotently.

England Endangered. "There is a good deal of talk," went on Lloyd George, "about the way the people deserted the countryside for the big towns; it is the same as Llanystumdwy, but pronounced 'Shlan-ees-tum-dwee.'"

"After all, a country is based on its land. Of all the countries engaged in the war we had the smallest proportion of people whose life was associated with the soil, and for that reason we had the largest percentage of rejections for physical unfitness."

"I can see the proportion of the industrial population becoming overwhelming, and the quiet life of the soil vanishing. It is a real peril to Britain. Therefore you must have something in the village that makes life worth living."

The church and the chapel have done their best. But they can't do everything. I remember going over the names of the village school I attended. I saw large numbers who left the village and went abroad to Manchester, Liverpool, London, America and Canada to make their way in the world—they did everything and went everywhere except remain in their own village.

"The greater attractions of the big towns have a lot to do with it. Unless the villages provide similar attractions, apart from the penny readings and dull concerts, the villages would soon become a waste of desolation."

The value of retaining one's nationality was next lauded by the prime minister. "With one tradition and one language the British empire could never have reached its present state," he said in defense of the preservation of the national tongue of Wales.

"There were some people who thought that they had better cease to become Welsh and concentrate on being good Britons. We fought for the empire better by being good Welshmen than we could have done by being bad Englishmen. It is no good thing taking a Highlander out of his native hills."

"The British empire is a temple of many stones. Far distant stones are well polished. I want the granite of Wales to be there, but I don't want it painted like the granite of Aberdeen. Polish it if you will, but let the color remain Welsh. The empire will be stronger—Wales will be better."

Therefore, for God's sake go on singing your Welsh songs and delivering your Welsh recitations. I heard them when I was a lad, and I hope to hear them until I die. Sing them over my grave! "Keep to the songs of Wales. Keep to the literature of Wales; it is only by so doing that you can make your great contribution to the empire and to humanity."

THE HOLD-OUT. Bobby had been given two nickels with the instruction to drop them into the collection plate. When the family emerged from church, his mother noticed that he still had one in his hand.

"Why, Bobby," she exclaimed, "you are withholding part of your contribution to God."

"I know it," replied Bobby in a determined voice. "I'm waiting to see what He intends to do about that pony I asked him for."

Eighth Grade Soccer Championship Team

The A81 class at the Wilson avenue school carried off the eighth grade championship for the school when they held the B811 team, of which Charles Chitry is captain, to a 1-1 score. Russell Lavell is captain for the A81's, and Miss Frances Jackson is the class teacher. The A81 girls' volleyball team has won the championship in the eighth grade volleyball schedule.

The seventh grade soccer schedule closed Monday when the undefeated A7111 class team, of which Frank Galbraith is captain, won their final game. The team was badly crippled when the sudden death of Russell Dunn deprived them of a valuable half-back, but nevertheless, far outplayed the other seventh grade teams.

Dempsey May Take Trip Abroad Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—According to a statement made public by Dan McKettrick, eastern representative of the Kearns-Dempsey interests, the champion may go abroad again, this time to meet Battling Siki, or Harry Wills. McKettrick announced he is in receipt of two offers for Dempsey's services, both from England.

The first bid offered Dempsey $125,000 to meet Siki; the second $250,000 to face Wills.

How many fifters we willingly wear because they were forged by our forefathers.
